From Our Special Correspondent.

TRENTON, Wednesday, June 26.

When the Democrats began to assemble in this City, last night, it was evident that the Convention was not to be an entirely harmonious affair. It was plain that the Greeley managers, being adepts in political trickery, might succeed in a formal expression in favor of acquiescence in the Baltimore nominations, but it was no less plain that if they did they would disrupt the Democratic Party of New-Jersey. Nowhere else are the Democrats so strict in the faith as in this State, and there are thousands who sincerely believe that to vote for any one who has ever been a Republican is a criminal offense worthy of condign punishment. This class was fully represented, both among the delegates and the outsides, and its representatives were in no way backward in making known their sentiments. In the cars, at the hotels and in the streets, they could be heard proclaiming their unalterable determination never to vote for GREELEY, in language more vigorous than refined. Fully a third of the Democracy talked in this way, and their earnestness had a very great effect in dampening the ardor of the Greeleyites. There was a general expression that the indorsement of GREELEY at Baltimore would inevitably give the State to GRANT, and although the advocates of the Tammany candidates affected to laugh at this declaration, none of them ventured to take issue with it.

In this spirit the Convention assembled, at noon, in Taylor's Hall, the delegates being 835, and with the spectators, the number in the hall was fully 1,200. The proceedings were opened by Col. WM. P. MCMICHAEL, Chairman of the State Committee, who called the assemblage to order, and who, proposing HON. CHARLES HAIGHT, of Monmouth County, for temporary Chairman, that gentleman was chosen. There had been no lack of material from which to choose a presiding officer, for the Convention contained many of the leading Democrats of the State. Among the members were Ex-Gov. Theodore F. Randolph, Senator John P. Stockton, Hon. S. C. Forker, Hon. Charles Sitgreaves, State Senators Lydecker, McPherson and Cook, Hon. J. Vanetta, Judge R. S. Green, Judge Naar, Ex-Gov. Price, Hon. J. T. Bird, Hon. W. G. Steele, Hon. Robert Hamilton, Hon. A. Dutcher, Hon. Joseph W. Gates, and many others. On taking the chair, Mr. HAIGHT proceeded to make the stereotyped speech concerning the corruption, imbecility, nepotism and gift-taking of the Administration; and it was noticeable that the invective against corruption received very little applause. The several committees on permanent organization, resolutions, rules and credentials were then appointed, after which somebody moved that all resolutions be referred, without reading or debate, to the Committee, whereupon a scene of great confusion ensued, and several amendments were offered. The upshot of it was that the Convention ordered them to be referred without debate, while an irate gentleman with bristly hair and reproachable linen was protesting against something as not being "Dimeratic." Getting out of this snarl, the Convention took a recess until 2½ o'clock P. M.

Upon reassembling, Ex-Gov. THEODORE F. RANDOLPH, of Morris County, was announced as permanent President, and, having been elected, took the chair, and proceeded to make a carefully-prepared address, in which he said:

That we shall obtain at Baltimore all we deem desirable after the patient, waiting years of fidelity to principle, and endurance of wrong, does not now seem probable. It can scarcely be questioned that as matters stand today the large proportion of delegates elected to the Baltimore Convention are in favor of indorsing both the Cincinnati platform and candidates. Unless some reaction, not now likely to occur, takes place 'twixt now and the meeting at Baltimore the action of that Convention is a foregone conclusion.

In view of the wishes of a large and faithful portion of the Democratic Party in New-Jersey, I do not deem it wise or necessary for this Convention to go beyond the election of delegates of patriotism, prudence and common sense. We must not lose sight of the fact, that to maintain our supremacy in New-Jersey, we shall require an almost united Democratic vote; for, with all due respect to the Liberal Republicans of New-Jersey, that have indicated their purpose to support the Cincinnati ticket, they are not yet so large a crowd as to be safe to anchor our hopes of success upon.

Many things, that you should, for reasons of a local and political character, if not for the higher and better reasons of respect for the opinions and feelings of old and true associates, defer your own and perhaps matured judgments, as far as any expression of opinion as to candidates at Baltimore might be given. It is surely enough for those who favor the endorsement of Mr. GREELEY to know:

First—That the vote of New-Jersey is not needed, probably, to secure this end. Second—That to force such an expression upon this Convention might produce discord in our ranks, and work ultimate harm to our cause instead of good.

His Liberal Republican strength, as thus far developed in the country, is like a scattering of our Jersey marl in the corn-hill—it is very encouraging to the slender stalk in June; it may help to keep moist the rapidly-growing fibres in hot July and August, but the stalk that withstands the trying September and October days and nights, that brings forth the well-filled and ripened ear for the November harvest, must rest its hopes upon the enduring strength and fertility of our broad Democratic acres.

I do not underrate the strength, moral and political, of that brave body of Republicans, who, stepping from beyond the confines of party, meet, as thousands of them are now meeting, upon a common ground, the hundreds of thousands of Democrats who have gone beyond their old camp-lines, and put out some of their old and now useless watch-fires, to camp and counsel together for a common cause and for the nation's safety. Yet it will remain true, that if Mr. GREELEY is indorsed at Baltimore, his main strength is our Democratic strength, and if elected his Administration will, in all his years of office, be largely dependent upon the good-will and support of the Democratic masses and their representatives in Congress and State Legislatures.

It is well-known to most of you that my judgment has been against the indorsement of the Cincinnati ticket by the Baltimore Convention. My reasons for the formation of this judgment are not of sufficient importance to detain you with them now.

I have aimed to be full and frank in my statements; disguising naught of my desire to defeat Mr. GREELEY'S indorsement at Baltimore if in my power. I thought and still think a more suitable nomination and a more acceptable candidate to the great body of Democratic voters could have been found. I know that if indorsed at Baltimore and sustained by most of us—as we shall sustain him in that event—we shall be charged with placing our life-long opponent at the head of our column, and that in the day of an almost assured victory.

All this is true; but it is equally true that Mr. GREELEY will only take the leadership of the party that elects him, after he has pronounced himself fully in favor of such old-fashioned Democratic principles as hostility to centralization of power, opposition to Federal interference in State and local affairs, condemnation of the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, full support of amnesty and rigid adherence to civil service reform, opposition to bayonet Election laws and the like. Now, if Mr. GREELEY can accommodate himself to such plain and uncompromising Democratic views as these—and to these he must come—we can accept his conversion.

Even if it be a trifle sudden and unexpected—so was St. Paul's conversation, you know—and though I desire to be reverential, and by no means to make a comparison that some of Mr. GREELEY'S new-found New-York friends might deem discomplimentary to him—yet no one questioned the sincerity of St. Paul's conversion nor had occasion to doubt it ever after.

It will be more than ordinarily safe to place our Democratic trust in Mr. GREELEY, should he be indorsed at Baltimore and elected, because the main Administration strength in Congress will be from Democratic Senators and Representatives, and from Liberals who did not place him in nomination. From the day of Mr. GREELEY'S inauguration, the whole pack of Grant Republicans will open cry upon him; and alas to him if, in all the long years of his Administration, he falters in fidelity to the principles of the platform upon which we may accept him, by whose sign he will be elected, and by whose power alone he will be placed and kept in charge of the great office.

During the speech every reference in contempt of GREELEY was received with cheers, which provoked some hisses, but it was not until Gov. RANDOLPH had concluded that the storm really broke forth. Judge NAAR of Trenton, was on his feet in a moment, and proceeded to read a resolution, to the effect that it is not within the province of the National Democratic Convention to meet on the 9th of July, or of any other Democratic Convention to put in nomination for President any one who is not a member of the Democratic Party. Before he had concluded, the tempest of discord broke out; a majority of the body jumped up, cheering wildly, and the remainder hissed with an energy that an army of black snakes would have envied. Gov. RANDOLPH pounded in vain with his huge hammer for order, while NAAR stamped up and down the aisle, shrieking wildly something that was drowned in the tumult. Finally, the discordant Democracy sunk exhausted into quiet, and Gov. RANDOLPH addressed them a few words, appealing to their self-respect to preserve order. But Mr. RANKIN then offering a resolution pledging New-Jersey to the Baltimore nominees, there were cheers and hisses again. Mr. HAND, of Passaic, next offered a resolution that the Cincinnati nominees be unequivocally indorsed, and thereby lashed the Convention into another fury. When he could make himself heard above the storm Judge CHAMBERS, of Hudson, read a long resolution, which, in substance, said that while this Convention does not desire to bind its delegates to Baltimore by instructions, it is yet its sense that the Cincinnati nominees should not be indorsed, and that the first choice of New-Jersey for the Presidency is Hon. JOEL PARKER.

This resolution was greeted in the same way as the others, except that the disorder was, if possible, a little more intense.

Just at this point there was every prospect that the Convention would dissolve in its own dissensions. It was plain even to an observer of only surface facts that the Democracy of New-Jersey, which had been so steadfast to Bourbonism, and had won so many victories, was wrecked on the Greeley rock. As a bitter proof of the truth of Gov. RANDOLPH'S opening speech, at this moment one-half of the Liberal Republican Party of the State appeared on the stage in the person of JAMES M. SCOVEL, who gazed in dismay upon the turbulent scene before him; Gen. KILPATRICK, the other half of the party, was not present. But just as the explosion was most imminent, and every one expected the Convention to break up in a tumult, a delegate with extraordinary lungs, made himself heard in a motion to go into an election for delegates at large to Baltimore. The President eagerly seized upon this safety-valve, declared the motion carried without having hardly put it, and Major SMITH, the Secretary, began to bellow at the Convention for nominations. A score or more were named, and the vote being at last taken it was found that Ex-Gov. RANDOLPH had 426, Senator JOHN P. STOCKTON, 643, and Hon. CHARLES HAIGHT 432, and they were declared elected. But nobody else had a majority, and an attempt being made to choose JOHN MCGREGOR, who had 373, by acclamation there was another row, and the motion being declared defeated, several delegates derisively shouted "How are you, HORACE!" Another ballot was had, when Hon. LEON ABBOTT was chosen, whereupon there were charges of cheating and another scraping of the edge of violent disruption. By adroit management this danger was passed, and in the midst of great confusion the following district delegates were chosen: First—A. H. Slote, W. H. Gwynne; Second—Emanuel Wilks, John Russell; Third—A. K. Coeswell, A. H. Patterson; Fourth—Caleb H. Valentine, John M. Voorhees; Fifth—Augustus A. Hardenburg, David Henry; Sixth—Warren W. Truesdale, Joel D. Mead; Seventh—Wm. B. Rankin, A. O. Evans.

Then came the report of the Committee on Resolutions, in this shape:

During the greater portion of the time since the organization of the Union the Democratic Party has administered the affairs and dictated the policy of the National Government. Under its administration constitutional liberty prevailed throughout the country; undivided rights were protected, and prosperity characterized all our material interests. To restore the Government to its former condition under Democratic rule, and particularly to re-establish a sound financial policy, the paramount importance of personal liberty and the centralization of power is the first duty of every citizen; therefore,

Resolved, That the true interests of the country require the re-establishment of the principle, the policy and the administrative experience of the Democratic Party.

Resolved, That we cordially invite the co-operation of all of our fellow-citizens who are opposed to the pernicious principles and conduct of affairs of the present Administration, and who are in favor of decentralization of government, the remission of local self-government to the several States, the relief of existing taxation by restricting the expansion of the currency and the enormous expenditures of the Government, the inviolability of personal freedom and return to those principles of government which distinguished the Administration of JEFFERSON, MADISON and JACKSON.

Resolved, That local self-government is a right inherent in the people and essential to liberty; that in creating a central Government, with grand powers for general purposes, the people did not surrender their right, but reserved to themselves the control of their home affairs, that any attempt on the part of Congress to interfere under any pretext with the full and free exercise of this right is a usurpation which the people ought not to tolerate, because its toleration leads to the destruction of the personal liberties and municipal privileges of the citizens, and the abandonment of all that renders free government valuable. So far as the Cincinnati platform agrees with the above principles it meets with our approval.

Resolved, That we do authorize and instruct our State Executive Committee to unite and co-operate with any other committee or organization in this State opposed to the present National Administration.

Resolved. That we pledge ourselves to abide by and support the nominees of the Democratic National Convention.

By the time this emasculated Democratic creed was read, fully two-thirds of the delegates had left the hall; but there was plenty of resistance to the surrender to GREELEY, and the Chairman incautiously calling for the nays, they appeared by the sound as numerous as the yeas. But the resolutions were declared adopted, and the Convention then adjourning, a number of the delegates occupied the remainder of their time in town in offering to make bets that GRANT would carry the State if GREELEY was the Baltimore nominee, but they found no takers.

Columns would be required to fully narrate the disgust and despondency of the New-Jersey Democracy to-night. I have heard the names of hundreds of Democrats mentioned as men who will under no circumstances vote for GREELEY. Taking what I have seen today as trustworthy evidence of the feeling in the State, and there does not seem the least possible chance for Mr. GREELEY to receive much more than half the Democratic vote of the State. Yet he had fully half the delegates here, and will undoubtedly have the vote of the State at Baltimore. These are some of the contradictions of Greeley politics. E. C.

The Candidate of Tammany and the Ex-Rebels.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean puts it briefly thus: "The Liberal party is dominated by Tammany at the North and by the representatives of secession and rebellion at the South. Tammany has selected GREELEY, because, through his elevation, it hopes to resume its sway of the Government of New-York City. The secessionists adopt GREELEY, because he was the only Republican who defended their rebellion theory of the right of a State to secede, and they hope through him to inaugurate peaceable secession."

GEORGIA.

The Democratic State Convention—State Rights and Defeat of Grant the Creed.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 26.—The Georgia Democratic State Convention was as large and able a body as ever assembled in Georgia. The action was entirely harmonious. The President was HON. ALBERT LAMAR, of Muscogee. Resolutions were adopted as follows:

Resolved, That the Democratic Party of Georgia stand upon the principles of the Democratic Party of the Union, bringing into special prominence, as applicable to the present extraordinary condition of the country, the unchangeable doctrine that this is a union of States, and that the indestructibility of equality with each other is an indispensable part of our political system.

Resolved, That in the approaching election the Democratic Party invites everybody to co-operate with them in a zealous determination to change the present usurping and corrupt Administration by placing in power men who are true to the principles of Constitutional government and a faithful and economical administration of public affairs.

Resolved, That, in our opinion, the delegates to the Baltimore Convention should go unmolested by instructions, and should act with all the lights before them they deem best for the good of the party and for the welfare of the country.

The delegates from the State at large are: Gen. H. L. Benning, Gen. A. R. Wright, of the Augusta Chronicle; Col. Tom Hardeman, Col. Julian Hartridge, Gen. A. H. Colquitt, Col. C. T. Goode, Gen. J. B. Gordon, and Col. J. W. Avery, of the Atlanta Constitution. All are conservate and favorablive to harmonious action at Baltimore.

ILLINOIS.

Two Democratic State Conventions in Springfield in One Day—Mutual Co-Operation the Object.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 26.—The "Liberal" State Convention met at noon today, in the House of Representatives. The hall was crowded. The Convention was called to order by EUGENE L. GRASS, Chairman of the State Central Committee. Prayer was made by Rev. Dr. HALE. Mr. GRASS nominated Gov. PALMER for temporary Chairman. Various Committees were then appointed. The Chairman read a letter from Hon. CARL SCHURZ, regretting that accumulation of business prevented his attending.

Mr. WENTWORTH moved that the Conference Committee notify the Democratic State Convention, that a Committee of Conference had been appointed, and the Convention authorized the Committee to confer with a Committee to be appointed by the Democratic Convention, to promote the object for which both bodies had assembled.

On motion the Cincinnati platform was unanimously adopted. [Cheers.] The Cincinnati candidates were indorsed amid great enthusiasm. The Convention then adjourned until 3 o'clock.

The Convention reassembled at 3 P. M. The Committee on Credentials reported all the delegations full. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported for President, Gov. JOHN M. PALMER, with a number of Vice-Presidents, and for Secretary SUMNER CHILTON, with four assistants. The report was adopted, and the President read a congratulatory and fraternal dispatch from the Mississippi Democratic and Conservative Conventions in session at Jackson. The reading of the dispatch was received with applause, and a suitable response was ordered to be returned.

The following State Central Committee was elected: First District, Horace White; Second, Gen. C. T. Hotchkiss; Third, W. K. Sullivan; Fourth, Stephen L. Taylor; Fifth, A. A. Terrill; Sixth, J. W. Olson; Seventh, W. W. Belmore; Eighth, Louis M. Babcock; Ninth, Thos. Croly; Tenth, John C. Bell; Eleventh, William Lynn; Twelfth, Isaac Keyes; Thirteenth, John T. Jenkins; Fourteenth, J. M. Davis; Fifteenth, W. D. Alexander; Sixteenth, H. Buxton; Seventeenth, Gen. Richard Rowell; Eighteenth, James Irwin; Nineteenth, W. W. Wiman. At Large, Gen. Herman Liebomhoten, Eugene L. Gross, Caspar Butz, Gen. W. C Kueffner.

The report was adopted, and the Convention adjourned till 7 P. M.

THE OTHER WING.

The Democratic State Convention met at the Opera-house in this city today, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the National Democratic Convention at Baltimore, and to nominate a ticket for State officers and for Presidential Electors. The Convention was called to order at noon, by Hon. A. G. BURR, Chairman of the State Central Committee, and was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. CARRAHAN.

On motion of ALEXANDER STORNE, Hon. J. C. ALLEN, of Crawford, was unanimously chosen temporary Chairman, and appearing upon the platform briefly addressed the Convention, returning his thanks for the honor conferred on him, and urging upon the delegates to conduct the business with deliberation and in a spirit of conciliation, looking to a union with another Convention.

On reassembling, at 2 P, M., the Chairman announced that a representative of the Liberal Republican Convention was in the hall, waiting to make a report to the Convention. The announcement was greeted with cheers. The delegate in question was escorted to the platform amid tumultuous applause, and announced that the Liberal Republican Convention now in session here had appointed a committee of nineteen—one from each Congressional district—to confer with a similar committee from this Convention upon questions of interest to this State.

The announcement was greeted with loud and long-continued applause.

The Committee on Permanent Organization submitted a report nominating Hon. J. C. ALLEN, the temporary Chairman, for permanent President of the Convention; Col. DANIEL CAMERON and JAMES RYKER Vice-Presidents for the State at large, with an additional Vice-President from each Congressional district; J. C. RICHBERG, of Cook County, for permanent Secretary, with a number of assistants.

The roll was then called for the appointment of the Committee of Conference to meet a similar Committee from the Liberal Republican Convention.

At this point the President of the Convention read a telegram from the President of the Democratical Conservative Convention at Mississippi, now in session, sending greeting to the Democratic and Liberal Republican Conditions of Illinois, and proposing to clasp hands with them across the bloody chasm made by the war. The reading of the dispatch was received with cheers. A dispatch was read from Hon. THOS. H. HENDRICKS, of Indiana, expressing regret at his inability to attend the Convention, and the hope that their deliberations would result in nominating a ticket which will be successful at the coming election.

The Committee on Credentials reported all the counties in the State as fully represented.

A motion that a Committee of one from each Congressional district be appointed to select and report the names of electors from the several districts and from the State at large, was opposed on the ground that the matter would be disposed of by the Conference Committee of the two Conventions, and the motion was temporarily tabled.

The Committee appointed to report the names of delegates from the State at large, and from the Congressional districts to the National Convention reported the following list:

At large—W. F. Coolbaugh, of Cook; J. J. Phillips, of Macoupin; Aaron S. Shaw, of Richland; A. M. Craig, of Knox. First District—M. W. Fuller, St. Clair Rutherford. Second—William B. Snowhook, M. T. Tuley. Third—Henry S. Helm, Obadiah Jackson. Fourth—Richard Bishop, B. Hopkins. Fifth—W. H. Mitchell, A. R. McCoy. Sixth—John Dickson, James E. Reckles. Seventh—S. W. Bowen, S. Ott. Eighth—N. C. Farrell, Henry C. Diet. Ninth—C. Thorpe, W. W. V. O'Brien. Tenth—J. R. Neill, J. B. Petterson. Eleventh—H. C. Withers, Bernard Arntzen. Twelfth—John A. M. Clernand, P. W. McNeily. Thirteenth—A. A. Miller, Z. S. Banks. Fourteenth—J. B. Hopkins, John Pirnson. Fifteenth—W. M. Garrand, H. B. Hevins. Sixteenth—C. D. Hailes, J. J. McOnley. Seventeenth—Milton McClure. S. A. Buckmaster. Eighteenth—J. H. Oberly, P. F. Banton. Nineteenth—Charles Curral, R. W. Popsond. The report was adopted.

A resolution instructing the delegates to Baltimore to cast their votes for GREELEY and BROWN was adopted almost unanimously. The Committee on Resolutions then submitted the following platform:

Resolved, By the Democrats of Illinois in Convention assembled, that the platform of principles adopted by the Cincinnati Convention, together with the clear interpretation of the same, enumerated in the letter of HORACE GREELEY in accepting the nomination of that Convention for the office of President of the United States, offers a common ground upon which liberal men of all political parties can consistently unite in opposition to personal government and its attendant official corruption.

Resolved, That our delegates this day, chosen to represent us in the Democratic National Convention, to assemble at Baltimore, be instructed to act and vote for us, a unit in the spirit of the foregoing resolution.

The resolutions were adopted by acclamation, and the Convention adjourned until 7½ o'clock this evening.

EVENING SESSION.

At the evening session of the Democratic Convention, Gen. MCCLERNAND, from the Committee of Conference appointed by the Convention to meet a similar committee from the Liberal Republican Convention, submitted the following ticket for State officers, as agreed upon by the Joint Conference Committee:

For Governor, Gustavus A. Koerner, of St. Clair; Lieutenant-Governor, Gen. Charles Black, of Champaign; Secretary of State, Edward Rummel, of Peoria; Auditor of State, Daniel O'Hara, of Cook; State Treasurer, Charles H. Lauper, of Sangamon; Attorney-General, Lawrence Weldon, of McLean; Clerk of the Supreme Court—First Grand Division, R. A. D. Wilbanks, of Jefferson; Second Grand Division, Daniel A. Brown.

Of the nominees on the State ticket, the Governor, Secretary of State and Attorney-General are "Liberals." The Lieutenant-Governor, Auditor and Treasurer are Democrats, also the candidates for Clerks of the Supreme Court.

A Committee was appointed to invite the Liberal Convention to join this Convention, and soon reported the Liberal Convention on the way to the hall. Immediately afterward Gov. PALMER, President of the Liberal Convention, appeared arm-in-arm with Gov. KOERNER, and amidst the wildest enthusiasm on the part of the delegates and spectators, advanced to the platform, where he was met by Gov. ALLEN, President of the Convention. Gov. PALMER then announced that the Liberal Republican Convention had heartily indorsed the nominations reported by the Joint Committee of Conference, and gladly joined hands with the Democracy in their support. Gov. ALLEN said he desired to meet the advances of the Chairman of the Liberal Republican Convention in the spirit in which they were made, and, like Paul, forgetting the things that are behind, strike hands with him in a common cause. As the Chairmen of the two Conventions advanced and clasped hands, another scene of wild excitement ensued, the delegates cheering frantically for several minutes. Gov. KOERNER then, in a brief speech, returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him, and pledged his best efforts for the success of the ticket and cause represented.

The Chairman of the Democratic and Liberal Republican Committees of Conference to select an electoral ticket, reported that the Conference had been unable to agree, and suggested that the matter be referred to the Democratic and Liberal Republican State Central Committees. The recommendation was adopted, and the Convention adjourned.

WASHINGTON.

What the Democrats of the Border States Think of Greeley—The Tipton Family.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A gentleman who came down through the Shenandoah Valley a day or two ago, had a political conversation with four Virginia Democrats waiting for a train at Harper's Ferry. He learned that one of them would vote for GREELEY, one for GRANT, and two would, if the farmer of Chappaqua were nominated at Baltimore, stay away from the polls and not vote at all. A Republican, from Eastern Pennsylvania, says he has information from two Democrats in Germantown, that, to their personal knowledge, fifty Democrats in that city will vote for GRANT, as against GREELEY, next November. Some of the Baltimore delegates from Pennsylvania intend to vote against HORACE in the Convention, and it is regarded certain that the delegation from that State will be far from unanimous in favor of the Cincinnati nominee.

Senator TIPTON'S brother-in-law, a few days since discharged for incompetency, threatens to appeal to the President, to bring suits at law against the head of the Department, besides some other foolish things. At the same time, he holds out a characteristic offer for one of his relationship, and promises, if he is restored, that he will support the election of GRANT and WILSON; but if not restored, he says he intends to take the stump for GREELEY and BROWN, and enter the Reform campaign.

MISSISSIPPI.

Conservative Democratic State Convention.

JACKSON, Miss., June 26.—The State Convention of the Conservative Democratic Party assembled here today. There was a very large attendance of the most prominent citizens of the State, Ex-Governor, Judges, and members of the legal profession, and a delegation of some twenty colored men. Judge WATSON, of Holly Springs, presided. Col. J. L. POWER was elected Secretary. There were two colored men in the list of Vice-Presidents. Telegrams of fraternal recognition were exchanged with the Illinois State Conventions. The resolutions declare among other things that to defeat the Administration of President GRANT, they are prepared to lay down all prejudices, clasp hands with the friends of constitutional liberty in the North, and help HORACE GREELEY and B. GRATZ BROWN.

THE ANTI-GREELEY DEMOCRATS.

Call for a Caucus at Baltimore—An Important Notice.

DAY-BOOK OFFICE,
NEW-YORK, June 26, 1872.

A conference having been had on the part of many Democrats of the City and State of New-York, who are opposed to the nomination of HORACE GREELEY at Baltimore, and who will not support him if nominated, to take such measures as principle, duty and self-respect demand in view of such event, it is deemed the most practicable method of giving expression to such opposition, to invite all Democrats, in every part of the Union, who are willing to co-operate in such a movement, and can personally attend, to be at Baltimore on Monday, the 8th day of July, to confer together, and take such action as then may be deemed advisable.

JOSEPH R. FLANDERS, Chairman.
JOHN J. VAN ALLEN, Secretary.

Another Anti-Greeley Circular in the Democratic Ranks.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 26.—A confidential circular has been quietly distributed here today among Democrats and Liberal Republicans opposed to the nomination of GREELEY at Baltimore. The circular has no name appended, a space being left blank to be filled by the party distributing it. Its exact source is not apparent, but it is rumored that a considerable number of copies came from Louisville today, and it is known that some have been filled up and directed to BLANTON DUNCAN, of Kentucky, in Baltimore. The circular is marked confidential, and is substantially a call for a bolting Democratic organization should the National Convention ratify the Liberal Convention.

Assumed Attitude of Mr. Groesbeck Toward the Baltimore Convention.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 26.—It is generally understood here as certain that Mr. GROESBECK will respect the decision of the Democratic Baltimore National Convention, and will not antagonize it by accepting the nomination made at New-York, or by any other nomination made outside the regular Democratic Convention.

THE TAMMANY CANDIDATE.

A Voice from Wisconsin.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I am for GRANT for President and WILSON for Vice-President. I am not for GREELEY for President. I cannot go for a ticket of dissatisfied politicians with a mixture of Democrats and Republicans. Yours truly,

J. B. CARPENTER,
County Clerk Portage County.

We hereby indorse the above sentiments.

JAMES E. ROGERS, Clerk Circuit Court, Portage County, Wisconsin; A. R. GRAY, Sheriff of Portage County, Wisconsin; J. K. KINGSBURY, County Judge Portage County, Wisconsin.

Why and Because.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Not long since the Tribune was very severe in its denunciations of the frauds, rascalities, &c., in the Sheriff's office. Now all these have ceased, while your paper is doing its duty to the approbation of every honest man. Where is the Tribune? INQUIRER.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, June 26, 1872.

[How can the Tribune attack Sheriff BRENNAN, when BRENNAN is one of GREELEY'S chief supporters? Our correspondent is very unreasonable.]

Another of Greeley's Leading Supporters.

Report of Meeting of New-York Democrats, held on Tuesday Evening, May 7.

Hon. BENJAMIN WOOD supported the motion, saying that he believed nine-tenths of the Democrats in the country were favorable to the nomination of HORACE GREELEY at that Convention. [Cheers.] Mr. WOOD also said that HORACE GREELEY had told him that no Republican Convention could cause his withdrawal. If the Democrats failed to ratify he might withdraw.

VERMONT.

Biennial Republican State Convention—Nomination of State Officers.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 26.—The Biennial Republican State Convention of the State of Vermont, for the election of Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Treasurer, and two Presidential Electors at large, convened in Washington Hall in Montpelier, today, at 11 o'clock A. M. The Convention was called to order by Hon. G. G. BENEDICT, Chairman of the State Committee, who named Hon. WM. G. SHAW, of Burlington, as temporary President, and Col. HOMER R. STOUGHTON, of Randolph; M. B. CARPENTER, of St. Albans, and ELISHA MAY, of St. Johnsburg, as temporary Secretaries, which organization was subsequently made permanent. At this point Major ROUNDS, of Chester, suggested three hearty cheers for GRANT and WILSON, which were given with the wildest enthusiasm and waiving of hats. United States Senator J. S. MORRILL was called upon and addressed the Convention with an able and effective speech. The Convention then proceeded to ballot for State officers. It will be remembered that the last Council of Censors altered the State Constitution providing for biennial elections and biennial sessions of the Legislature. This is the first State election under this new Constitution, and the main question to be settled was whether the one-term or two-term principle should prevail in the election of State officers. The contest has been very animated, and full delegations from all parts of the State were present, as well as large numbers of outsiders. For Governor, Ex-Lieut.-Gov. SLADE nominated the present Executive, Hon. JNO. W. STEWART, of Middlebury. Hon. CHARLES P. MARSH, of Woodstock, nominated Hon. FREDERICK BILLINGS, of Woodstock, and Major WILLIAM ROUNDS nominated Hon. JULIUS CONVERSE, of Woodstock. The result of the ballot was as follows: Whole number of votes, 405; necessary to choice, 203; JOHN W. STEWART had 125, JULIUS CONVERSE had 99, FREDERICK BILLINGS had 181. At this point Gov. SLADE withdrew the name of Gov. STEWART in favor of Mr. CONVERSE. The second ballot resulted as follows: Whole number of votes, 408; necessary to choice, 202; JULIUS CONVERSE, 202; FRED. BILLINGS, 197, scattering 3, and Mr. CONVERSE was declared elected. For Lieutenant-Governor the names of Hon. HENRY CLARK, of Rutland, and Hon. R. G. TAFT, of Burlington, were presented. The result was the nomination of R. G. TAFT by the following ballot: Whole number of votes, 379; necessary to choice, 190; R. G. TAFT, 227; HENRY CLARK, 152. For Treasurer the present incumbent, Hon. JOHN A. PAGE, of Montpelier, was elected by a viva voce vote. For Presidential electors Hon. HARMON CANFIELD, of Arlington, and Hon. E. P. JEWETT, of Montpelier, were elected unanimously. Subsequently the nominations of Mr. CONVERSE and Mr. TAFT were made unanimous, and the defeated candidate, Mr. BILLINGS, appeared before the Convention and made a very able speech, in which he counseled harmony, and made an excellent appearance before the Convention.

The resolutions were eminently patriotic, but were too long to elicit much attention from the Convention. There was great enthusiasm manifested throughout the convention, and mention of GRANT and WILSON were received with unbounded applause whenever mentioned. There is very little of the unholy leaven of Greeleyism to be found in Vermont, and Vermont will give an excellent account of herself, as usual, next Fall. Of the candidates, Mr. CONVERSE is well and favorably known throughout the country, and a breadth of the State as one of its best and most honored citizens. He was Lieutenant-Governor in 1850-52, and is exceedingly popular. Mr. TAFT belongs to the younger men of the party, but has been often tried, and always found true to the principles of Republicanism. The ticket will carry the entire strength of the party in the State.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Republican Congressional and County Nominations in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—The Republican nominations yesterday were made by the Crawford County system, the people showing their preferences by a direct vote. The Congressional nominations were as follows: First District, DAVID F. HOUGHTON; Second District, CHAS. O'NEIL; Third District, LEONARD MYERS; Fourth District, WM. D. KELLEY; Fifth District, A. C. HARMER. Postmaster BINGHAM was selected for Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions. The proceedings passed off quietly, and the experiment is regarded as a success, though it is conceded that the system will not prevent the holding back of election returns, and false counting.

LOCAL POLITICS.

The Seventeenth District German Republicans.

The German Republican Club of the Seventeenth Assembly District held its regular meeting last evening at the head-quarters, No. 473 53d-st., CHARLES R. FLAMMER presiding. A resolution passed at the last meeting to organize a German GRANT and WILSON Campaign club was carried out by the election of CHARLES A. FLAMMER, President, John Wachter, First Vice-President, Jacob Taulbaher, Second Vice-President, Dr. Francis Daster, Recording Secretary, Jacob Geddes, Corresponding Secretary, Jacob Goety, Treasurer. Delegates were also elected to the Central Committee. Speeches were made by the President and CASE DAMEN, and the meeting adjourned with cheers for the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention.

A Grant and Wilson Club in the Eleventh Assembly District.

The Eleventh Assembly District Republican Association held a regular meeting last evening, at Republican Hall, the President, Mr. THOMAS C. ACTON, in the chair. After the transaction of some routine business, the meeting adjourned and immediately thereafter the members, together with other Republican citizens of the district, proceeded to organize a Grant and Wilson Campaign Club. On motion, Capt. A. C. PUFFER was made Temporary Chairman and Mr. MCAFEE Secretary.

A committee of five was appointed to nominate permanent officers of the Association, who reported the following ticket, which was unanimously elected: President, C. D. VAN WAGANAN; Vice-Presidents, SEYMOUR A. BUSH, JACOB SUPERNAU; Secretary, A. C. BRUNDAGE; Treasurer, MYRON J. FRISBIE.

A committee of five was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws. It was then resolved to procure a large Grant and Wilson transparency, and after enrolling the names of the gentlemen present, the meeting adjourned until Wednesday next.

Tenth Assembly District Republicans.

The Tenth Assembly District Republican Association met last evening at No. 28 Avenue A, Mr. J. N. PATTERSON, Jr., presiding. Dr. TRESKATIS addressed the meeting at some length, in the course of which he said that no compromise should be made with the so-called Liberals. He deprecated the setting of different nationalities against each other, and called on all to stand together for the Republican ticket, and victory would crown their efforts. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we congratulate the Republican Party for the withdrawal from their ranks of a few notorious aspirants for impossible preferment of men who have ever been ready to barter principle for place.

Resolved, That in the leader of this defection we recognize a life-long agitator, who has ever sought to sow dissensions in the national or political organization to which he, for the time being, belonged; a Whig of the old time, he quarreled with his patron and master for the spoils of office; as an American, he urged sectional agitation to the point of war, and then counseled as a means of avoiding the issue a dismemberance of the Republic. The country being engaged in war, he urged our untrained troops prematurely into conflict, and sought to remedy the disaster the national cause incurred, to procure an ignominous peace by colloquies with irresponsible rebel refugees prowling upon our Northern frontier. Peace being finally established, he recommended severest discipline to States requiring reconstruction, and now censures the Administration for accepting his opinions. A professed protectionist of domestic industry, he has abandoned his policy, and given his adhesion to his enemies. A Republican, he is striving to surrender himself and his party to its life-long enemy, and has crowned his career of glaring inconsistency with an apostacy so infamous as to unfit him even for the uses of a dummy candidate for a speckled party, to which he seeks to sell himself.

Resolved, That, with its ranks purged of its disaffected elements, the Republican Party proceed with unshaken purpose to the maintenance of its irrevocable principles, and lead on to victory.

Resolved, That the Republicans of the Tenth Assembly District heartily indorse the nomination of the soldier, successful in war, and a statesman in peace, U. S. GRANT, for the office of President of the United States, and of the energetic and skilful counselor and director in the nation's severest ordeal, HENRY WILSON, for the office of Vice-President, and that we pledge ourselves to use every honorable effort to secure, by their triumphant election, the conservation of honorable peace, the maintenance of the national honor, and the continued prosperity of the Republic.

Mr. F. S. LUDLOW, Mr. MCWALTER, Mr. H. HAIGHT and others spoke to the resolutions, after which the meeting adjourned.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Gov. Jacob an Independent Candidate for Re-Election.

Gov. JOHN J. JACOB, of West Virginia, has announced himself an independent candidate for re-election in the following card:

To the People of West Virginia:

At the earnest solicitation of numerous citizens, from all parts of the State, I have concluded to be an independent candidate for re-election to the office of Governor.

(Signed,) J. J. JACOB.

Two years ago Gov. JACOB was elected by a majority of 2,150 votes, receiving 29,090 to 26,940 for Gov. STEVENSON, Republican, who was nominated for re-election. His independent course has disgusted the old lines of his party

THE FISK MURDER.

A Jury Obtained Yesterday to Try Stokes.

The Names of the Jurors—Opening of the Prosecution—Address of District-Attorney Garvin.

The trial of EDWARD S. STOKES for the killing of JAMES FISK, Jr., was resumed in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, yesterday, before Judge INGRAHAM. The task of impanelling a jury was completed, and District-Attorney GARVIN opened the case for the prosecution. An adjournment was then obtained until this morning. As on the preceding days, the prosecution was conducted by District-Attorney GARVIN, assisted by the private counsel, Messrs. BEACH and FULLERTON, and the prisoner was defended by Messrs. MCKEON, TREMAINE, DAILEY, Jr., and TOWNSEND.

The first juror called yesterday, was HENRY WYSE, of No. 341 West Thirty-first-street; he had an opinion on this case which would not prejudice his judgment, but he was opposed to capital punishment. He was excused. HENRY C. BABCOCK had an opinion which would influence his judgment, and he was rejected. JOHN KING had an opinion, which he would retain, no matter what evidence might be given on the trial. He was excused.

THE ELEVENTH JUROR.

HENRY C. WHITTLE, stationer, No. 653 Eighth-avenue, had read the particulars connected with the shooting of Mr. FISK, and had formed an opinion thereon. That opinion was of such a character as would not prejudice his verdict, and he could render a fair judgment on the evidence adduced on the trial. He had no acquaintance with FISK, GOULD, TWEED or STOKES, and never held any political office under the City Government. The defense withdrew its challenge as to favor, and Mr. WHITTLE was sworn in as the eleventh juror.

ZACHARIAH J. HALPIN was opposed to capital punishment, and was rejected. FREDERICK T. MARTINEZ and JAMES C. HOWE were excused for having entertained opinions that might prejudice their verdict. WM. VERNON, Jr., EDWARD MEEHAN and WM. A. THOMPSON were rejected for entertaining opinions.

WM. A. BLAISDELL, a painter, had not read the newspaper account of the shooting of JAMES FISK, Jr., and had no bias for or against the prisoner. He thought he could render a verdict on the evidence impartially. Had no acquaintance with any of the parties supposed to be connected with this case, and never held any political office in his life. The witness was about to be accepted, when it was ascertained that he was a relative of ALVAH BLAISDELL, who was convicted in the United States Court in connection with the frauds of the whisky ring, and who was defended by Mr. FULLERTON. The order declared the challenge as to favor withdrawn, and he was then challenged peremptorily by the defense.

James McCall, James W. Sheffield, M. Connover, William Hulbert, Leroy M. Shear and Joseph Walker were rejected for having opinions and prejudices. James B. Winslow was challenged peremptorily by the defense. Albert Bijur and Eben R. Thompson were rejected for having opinions, and Michael Marcus was challenged peremptorily by the defense. John C. Mills was rejected for having an opinion, and the challenge for favor in the case of George Place was declared true. George A. Bergen, Adolphus Edlmuth, John H. Masterson, George Vaughan, Martin Gerdes and Michael L. Goodwin were rejected. Edward Boehm and Henry J. Hancock were challenged peremptorily, the latter having a son who held a political position with FISK. Henry C. Weeks and James J. Blackman, were rejected for having opinions. Isidore Straus was opposed to capital punishment and excused. Maurice Stock and Paul Amand were excused for having opinions.

THE TWELFTH JUROR.

JOHN TUCKER, paper merchant, No. 331 East Forty-first-street, had not formed an opinion which he thought would influence his verdict. He was accepted on both sides and sworn in as the twelfth juror.

The following is the complete list:

1. Meyer Homberger, importer, No. 383 Broadway. 2. Roderic Hogan, hatter, No. 374 Bowery. 3. Bennett Williams, laces, No. 773 Broadway. 4. Nehemiah N. Cornish, merchant, No. 50 Lispenard-street. 5. Byron F. Stone, clerk, No. 6 Bond-street. 6. Theodore Flamme, commission merchant, No. 23 University place. 7. John Edwin F. Bond, clerk, No. 261 Broadway. 8. Peter E. Hopkins, hats, No. 446 Broadway. 9. John H. Thompson, clerk, No. 868 Broadway. 10. John Augustus Lefferts, enameler, No. 417 West Twenty-fourth-street. 11. Henry C. Whittle, toys, No. 653 Eighth-avenue. 12. John Tucker, paper, No. 24 Aun-street.

THE PROSECUTION OPENS.

District-Attorney GARVIN then stated the case for the prosecution. He said:

MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT OF THE GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: It is certainly a great relief to me to be able to stand before twelve men, duly impaneled, to try this important case. And it is not a very unusual thing, in a case of this description, to occupy a very considerable period of time in obtaining jurors, for the reason that in all cases of this description, where publicity is given in newspapers to transactions connected with affairs of this kind, every intelligent man reads more or less in regard to it. And I have no doubt, if you have truthfully answered the questions put to you on oath sides, that you have not expressed an opinion in the case which you will be compelled to dismiss, sitting as you do now in the jury-box to decide in a case of life and death. It may be, gentlemen, that this is the first time that you ever performed a duty of this description, and it is the highest, the most solemn and responsible position which you ever will be placed in during the period of your natural life. And no man ever comes to a consideration of questions of this description without a sort of awe pervading his mind and his whole system. It has been my fortune, good or bad, to prosecute and defend in a great many important cases of this nature during my experience as a lawyer, and although a man feels an impression and a sort and a degree of trouble to which he undertakes to defend a crime of this character. Yet it is nothing to be compared with the responsibility one feels when he stands in the position of a public prosecutor. It is not because a human life is involved, but he has responsibilities which lie behind and surround him in regard to cases of this kind which are unknown into any kind of reverence for the task with which he is intrusted. But whatever degree of difficulty may attend the prosecution, it is nothing compared to the responsibility devolving on the juror by his oath, and by his obligation to the community and the accused, to pronounce just and fair and conscientious verdict upon the evidence submitted for consideration. It is the life of the man—it is the life of a prisoner. You have before you the life of a human being taken, and it makes no difference whether he was a good or a bad man. The law is that no man shall take in his hand the power to execute judgment on his fellow-man without his being subjected to a fair and impartial trial and all the facts elicited. What now may be your opinions in regard to this case, whatever may be your impressions, whatever may be the notions that have entered into your mind from newspaper readings or conversations, whatever expression you may have given vent, to you must dismiss them all from your mind until you have heard the testimony of the witnesses, and by that you are to be governed to make up your verdict. This is no idle play. You know there is no animosity or vengeance to gratify—no malice, ill-will or favoritism; on the contrary, you are to hear the evidence, and see what the case is. When you ascertain the truth, then you are to make up your mind honestly and fairly, and give such a verdict as will be justified by the facts submitted for your consideration.

Now, gentlemen, in order to arrive at a verdict in this case the Court will tell you that the law is that if the life of Col. FISK was taken by design and premeditation with intent so to do at the time when the transaction took place, then the prisoner is guilty of murder in the first degree, and your are bound so to find. There are no refinements about this case; no doubts about the question involved, no trouble surrounding it. It is a plain straight forward case, either one way or the other, and you will have no trouble in coming to a conclusion. Therefore I say the rule is that if you determine after hearing the facts that the accused, under the circumstances, before you, and upon whose life and liberty you are to pass, took the life of Col. FISK with premeditated intent at the time of so doing, then he is guilty of murder in the first degree, and you are bound as honest men to pronounce him guilty. The law fixes the penalty, and with that you have nothing to do. Now, gentlemen, I am instructed that in this case we shall prove that about 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 5th or 6th of January, 1872, the prisoner was on Broadway, nearly opposite his hotel. Next the prisoner was seen passing the Grand Opera-house a few minutes thereafter. As he passed he looked directly into the window where Col. FISK stood. In a very short period of time subsequently he was seen again in Broadway, above the Grand Central Hotel. He was seen to enter that hotel in a hurry, go up the stairway, stand at the head of the stairs, laying in wait, and watching as if for the appearance of some one who, at that time, nobody but the spirit who sits before you today knew. Not less than five minutes afterward Col. FISK stepped out of his carriage, walked up that stairway, and at the head of the stairs stood the accused, pistol in hand. He fired the first and mortal wound upon Col. FISK. Then to make sure, he fired a second shot. The first shot was embedded in his bowels, and he died the following day. Now, gentlemen, if that is true, if these facts are proven in evidence, if he did lie in wait for Col. FISK and shot, and that was a mortal wound, and he died, I shall ask you, as good men, to render a verdict of premeditated murder against this prisoner, and let him take the consequences of his crime. If, on the other hand, there is any evidence produced by him which relieves him from this responsibility, then it will be for you to listen to him, hear it, give it such consideration as it shall be entitled to, and, if he is not guilty, so pronounce and let him go free. If, again, it turns out that the evidence we present is true, then, under all the considerations which operate upon man, you are bound to pronounce him guilty and let the law of God and man take its course. Now, gentlemen, we will introduce our testimony for your consideration. I beg and beseech of you to hear us attentively, and when we are through I have no doubt, whatever verdict you may render, the great public will be satisfied and your consciences will be unsullied before God and man.

Mr. CHARLES G. HILL was called on behalf of the prosecution, but did not respond. An application was made by prisoner's counsel, for a postponement until this morning, (it was then 2 o'clock,) and the Court reluctantly consented to the adjournment.

Newspaper Ethics.

From the Buffalo Commercial, June 24.

Mr. LEWIS F. ALLEN'S pungent letter to the editor of the New-York Tribune has been widely printed, and it has hurt that paper. The Tribune did not dare to print the letter itself, but made a reply, in which, describing Mr. ALLEN'S position, the editor told no less than three lies—to use the Tribune's favorite word—in as many lines. And now we notice that GREELEY'S Democratic organs are echoing the Tribune's sentiments in this matter, and are ridiculing Mr. ALLEN'S proposition; but it is significant that none of them prints his letter, nor states his proposition correctly.

Our readers know that Mr. ALLEN simply took the ground that when a subscriber is required to pay for a political paper in advance, there is an implied understanding that no general change shall be made in the political conduct of the paper during the time for which he has paid for it. If, for example, a man subscribes for a Republican paper, it does not fulfill the implied understanding to give him for his money a Democratic paper instead. There is no one newspaper subscriber in a thousand who does not hold this opinion. If subscribers were not required to pay for their papers in advance, the case would be very different. If the paper changed its political conduct, the subscriber could stop it, pay what he owes, and have done with it. But if he has paid for it a year in advance, he has no such remedy. He cannot get his money back, and it does not honestly satisfy the obligation to give him a newspaper which, in political conduct and principles, is entirely different from that for which he subscribed. Suppose a man should order a Democratic journal of a news-dealer and pay for it in advance, and the paper should cease to live in the meantime, could the dealer fill the contract by giving the subscriber a Republican paper for the unexpired time? This, in fact, is precisely such a question as Mr. ALLEN submitted for the consideration of the Tribune. The whole matter hangs upon the advance payment. The Tribune knows that Mr. ALLEN would not have subscribed for the paper under its present conduct. To keep his money under such circumstances is no better than swindling. He ordered and paid for a Republican paper. To send him a Democratic organ is simply to cheat him.

But the Tribune says that subscribing for a paper does not give a man the slightest control over its editorial columns, and that he does not thereby "acquire the right to be consulted in regard to the course of the paper." And some of the Tribune's over-zealous Democratic allies admiringly echo this sentiment. Here is the Utica Observer, for instance, asserting that "what the Tribune says of itself applies with equal force to all reputable journals," and that those editors who hold otherwise "degrade themselves and their profession in order to make a point against Mr. GREELEY and the Tribune."

These are high-sounding words—but they don't touch the point at issue between the Tribune and its subscribers. The editor of that journal and his Democratic allies all lie when they say that Mr. ALLEN contended that paying for the paper in advance gave him any right of control over its editorial conduct. Nobody takes that silly position. What Mr. ALLEN says, and what he is supported in saying by commonsense and common justice, is that when he pays for a Republican paper he ought not to be required to receive a Democratic paper instead. He does not question the publishers' right to change their paper into a Democratic sheet, but he denies their right to force a Republican to take a Democratic paper, and he questions their right to keep the money which he paid for a very different article. No one would dispute the soundness of this principle, if applied to any other commodity than a newspaper. Why should it not hold good with any honest publisher?

Importers' and Grocers' Board of Trade—Commissioners for the Protection of Seamen.

At a special meeting of the Importers' and Grocers' Board of Trade, yesterday, the following resolution, offered by JOHN D. MCKENZIE, was adopted:

Whereas, On the 17th January, 1872, this Board petitioned the Congress of the United States to pass an act for the better protection of seamen and the appointment of suitable persons as Commissioners, to act in their behalf at each port. The said act having become a law, and the selection of such Commissioner for the Port of New-York being left to Hon. Judge WOODRUFF, of the United States Court for this District, the Importers' and Grocers' Board of Trade of the City of New-York, do hereby cordially recommend the appointment of Capt. CHARLES C. DUNCAN, of this Port, as a suitable and proper person in all respects to fill the position of Commissioner under said act.

The following were elected to membership, and it was resolved to hold no July meeting of the Board.

P. B. Vellier, George H. Moller, J. W. De Castro, J. O. Donner, Alexander Machey, Lawson N. Fuller, Cord Moller, Henry J. Havemeyer, Peter Moller, George H. Moller, John C. Havemeyer, William A. Wiechers.

The above are all sugar refiners, who, not having before been members of the Importers and Grocers' Board of Trade, have evidently seen the advantages of co-operation since the strike of their workmen.

THE ORANGE PARADE.

The Chicago Contributions—Report of the Chamber of Commerce Committee.

The report of the Chamber of Commerce Committee for the relief of the Chicago sufferers, with the roll of contributors to the fund and the adjusted accounts of the treasurer, has just been printed, after a most careful revision. Three thousand copies have come from the Press, and one will be sent to each accessible subscriber. Copies of this pamphlet, which might almost be called a book, comprising, as it does, seventy-two octavo pages, can be had on application to the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The report reviews the circumstances under which, on the 10th of October last, the subscriptions were so promptly started by the Chamber of Commerce for the relief of the sufferers by the almost unprecedented disaster of the two preceding days, and tells how contributions exceeding the largest anticipations were at once poured in. Up to May 4, 1872, the Committee were engaged receiving the money of generous givers, from the thousands of our wealthy bankers and merchants to the mites of the Sunday-school children, and boot-blacks even, during that period receiving and disbursing $1,031,442 13, of which $624,139 27 was from contributions in this country, and the large amount of $406,252 86 was from abroad. There are 2,200 subscriptions on this roll of honor, representing about 5,000 individual contributions, the list covering sixty pages, starting off with the ten contributions of $10,000 each, given by bankers and corporations; gradually diminishing in amount to the $10 from "Little Boy," the $9 from "Rejected," $5 a "Widow's mite" and $2 from "Wee-bit," to fifty cents from "A washer-woman."

A Wholesale Horse Swindler.

HERMAN WESTBROOK was arrested yesterday on a charge of swindling JOHN MATTHEWS, of No. 212 West Fortieth-street, out of a horse of the value of $3,000. Several months ago WESTBROOK purchased the animal from Mr. MATTHEWS on trust, representing that he owned a large amount of property in Delaware township, Pike County, Penn., which representations have turned out to be false. WESTBROOK was taken before Justice BIXBY, in the Yorkville Police Court, and was locked up for examination to-day. A similar complaint was made against him by Mr. HENRY DOWDALL, of No. 136 Sullivan-street, who was swindled out of $1,400 by WESTBROOK. It is expected that at least five or six additional complaints of a similar nature will be made against him to-day.

A Policeman Charged With Theft.

Patrolman JOHN MCMANUS, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct Police, was arraigned before Commissioner MANIERRE, yesterday, charged with having robbed CHAS. ENGLENGE and GARRETT OHLE, two Germans residing at No. 545 Pearl-street—the former of fifteen cents and a knife and the latter of fifty cents. It appeared that the policeman met the complainants in Washington-street on the morning of the 24th inst, accused them of having attempted to break into a store in the vicinity, and, under pretense of searching, robbed them of the amounts mentioned. He then allowed them to go. The next day they went to the Station-house, and made a complaint against the officer. MCMANUS then produced the knife taken from ENGLENGE, and stated he had arrested the latter for attempting to stab a fireman, though he had made no report of the case, as required by the rules. During the trial he stated in his defense that Fireman JOHN O'DONNELL, of Engine Company No. 6, had informed him that the men were trying to break into some place, and that he attempted to arrest them, when ENGLENGE drew the knife on the fireman. O'DONNELL was produced, but his testimony contradicted that of the Policeman's in many respects. The case was referred to the Board, who, at a subsequent meeting, dismissed MCMANUS from the Department.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

Meeting of the Board Yesterday—Disinfecting Streets and Gutters—The Railroad Companies to Be Sued.

The Board of Health met as usual, yesterday afternoon, President BOSWORTH in the chair.

The Sanitary Committee, to whom were referred the applications of GAMBLE & MCNIEL, TOBY & BOOTH and M. DONOHUE & CO. to melt fat at their establishments at the foot of West Thirty-ninth-street, and West Fortieth-street, reported adversely.

On the recommendation of the Sanitary and Finance Committees, Commissioner GROSS, the Special Committee on Disinfection, was authorized to spend $300 in disinfecting streets and street-gutters up to July 1. Commissioner GROSS reported that for the five days ending the 25th inst., forty-four and three-quarters miles of street-gutters had been disinfected.

The Controller was requested to place $25,000 to the credit of the Board of Health.

The City Sanitary Inspector made a report on the filthy condition of certain streets and avenues in the City which are out of repair or unpaved. It was referred to the Board of Public Works.

Reports were received from the Health Inspectors, setting forth that all the City railroad cars were being run in violation of the Sanitary code, which requires the various companies to remove the cushions from the seats and backs of the seats, and also to place in the roof of each car two ventilating cowls.

It was found that some of the cars had been divested of the cushions, but none had complied with the regulations in regard to the ventilators.

Commissioner MANIERRE moved that the reports be referred to the counsel, with instructions to enter suits against each of the railroad companies for violations of the Sanitary ordinances. This motion was adopted by the following vote: Yeas—Messrs. Bosworth, Barr, Ceccarini, Mulally, S. Smith, Manierre. Nays—Mr. Gross.

Dr. CHARLES P. RUSSELL, Register of Records, reports as follows: During the past week there were registered 640 deaths, being an increase of 8 upon the previous week and an increase of 154 upon the corresponding week of 1870. Zymotic diseases occasioned 273 deaths; constitutional, 112; local, 201; developmental, 30, and violent causes, 24. The fatal cases of small-pox diminished from 48 to 19; those of scarlatina from 29 to 28; those of whooping-cough from 8 to 5; those of disease 22, against 24. Additional death from hydrophobia, on June 15, was reported, the victim being a boy twelve years old, who had been bitten five weeks previous to death. There occurred 11 cases of remitting fever, one fatal case and three deaths took place in institutions and 57 deaths were certified by Coroners. Of the latter, 21 were due to accident or negligence, 2 to homicide and 1 to suicide. Three hundred and fifty-four, or fifty-five per cent. of the total mortality, were of children under five years of age, and 26 deaths were of persons seventy years old and upward. The following were the principal meteorological features of the week, as recorded for this Department at the Cooper Union: Maximum temperature, 91°; minimum temperature, 60°; mean temperature, 77.26°, being 6.14° higher than the corresponding period for the seven years past; mean reading of barometer, 29.961 inches. Mean degree of humidity, 69.69.

Capt. YULE, of the Sanitary Company of Police, reports the following as the amount of meat, fish, &c., seized and condemned as unfit for human food: Cattle, 1; sheep, 2; hogs, 27; veal, 1; carcass, 1; beef, 1; pieces, 4; "cut," 12 pounds; beef, 475 pounds; poultry, 47 pounds; fish, 16,425 pounds; eggs, 12 barrels.

The Board then adjourned.

Commissioners of Public Instruction.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Board of Public Instruction was held yesterday afternoon, Hon. B. SMYTH in the chair, and Messrs. Wood, Gross, Jarvis, Jenkins, Sands, Brennan and Lewis being present.

The monthly report of the City Superintendent for May was presented. According to the report 309 classes were examined, of which 174 were found to be excellent, 116 good, eighteen fair, and one indifferent. In about six per cent. the instruction has been unsatisfactory, and in three per cent. discipline was found to be defective. In the male department of Grammar School No. 9, the management was found quite unsatisfactory. On the 31st of May the number of pupils on register, was 96,042, or 4,302 less than last year, and the average attendance 85,046.

The Controller reported that he had placed $115,000 to the credit of the Board, viz.: $9,000 for the support of public schools, and $25,000 for that of the College of the City of New York.

The Committee on Evening Schools recommended:

That every candidate for appointment as teacher of an evening school present themselves in person before the Committee; also, that no scholars be admitted under the age of fourteen years, and that the principals of the evening schools be directed to open the lists for admission two weeks previous to the opening.

The report was laid over.

It was reported that the collections made in the public schools for the purpose of purchasing the statue of WASHINGTON by HOWDON had resulted in the aggregate collection of $2,772 40, and that Mr. BUBBARD had consented to sell it for $6,000, to be placed in the Central Park. The Committee recommends its purchase.

Mr. JENKINS resigned his position on the Board of Examiners, and Mr. JARVIS was appointed in his place.

On motion of Mr. SANDS the sum of $586 was paid to the proprietor of the Public School Journal.

There was considerable annoyance caused to the members of the Board by the absence of the printed minutes of the Board, which the printer had failed to furnish the Public School Journal, which paper had the contract for furnishing the same.

Trustees of the College of the City of New-York.

The regular meeting of the Trustees of the College of the City of New-York was held yesterday afternoon, President SMYTH in the Chair, and Trustees Webb, Jenkins, Gross, Sandt, Wood and Lewis present.

It was resolved to permit the students who desire to have a re-examination to take their books from their respective departments.

It was further resolved to give the candidates for admission who failed not passed, another opportunity in September.

The Board of Apportionment was by resolution requested to place further $25,000 at the disposal of the Trustees, to enable them to furnish the necessary supplies. The Board then adjourned.

A Habeas Corpus Case—Application to Obtain Custody of a Child by its Mother.

An application was made yesterday in the Supreme Court, Chambers, before Judge BARRETT, on behalf of CONSTANCE B. PRICE, for a writ of habeas corpus to deliver her daughter, LILLIE M. PRICE, from the custody of her husband. In her petition she states that on the 1st of July, 1865, she married WALTER W. PRICE, but that since October, 1871, they have been living in a state of separation without being divorced; one child, a girl, has been the result of their union, who is now four years old and can neither hear nor speak, being a deaf-mute. She says her husband is a man of violent and ungoverned temper, and drove her from home with threats of violence and from fear of her life, and his habits of life are, she says, low and debasing.

Upon this sworn statement of facts Judge BARRETT issued a writ of habeas corpus, directed to WALTER W. PRICE, and commanding him to produce the child in Court before him.

Additional Contracts for City Work.

In addition to the contracts for public works awarded by the Commissioner on Tuesday, he is at present engaged in making out a further list of works sanctioned by ordinances of the Common Council, for which proposals will be called in a few days. Those already given out were for sewers; these will be for paving, regulating and grading. The surveyors are already appointed, and will furnish the specifications in a few days.

The German Society.

The Directors of the German Immigrant Society held a special meeting at No. 13 Broadway, yesterday afternoon, and elected Mr. SIGISMUND KAUFMAN President, in place of FREDERICK SCHACK, who is absent in Europe. The sum of $200 was appropriated to be expended during the month in aid of German immigrants. Dr. JOHANNES ROESSING, the German Consul-General, transmitted the sum of 100 thalers, presented to the Society by the Grand Duke of MECKLENBURG.

The Chicago Art Sale.

The report of the Treasurer and Secretary of the New-York Artists' Chicago Relief Fund Committee just made states that the net sum realized from sale of paintings and from cash donations was $7,271 26. Immediately after the sale at the rooms of MESSRS. LEAVITT, the Treasurer of the Committee remitted $7,000 to Messrs. B. F. CULVER, JOHN F. STAFFORD and Gov. BROSS, at Chicago, who had been carefully instructed by the New-York Committee requiring an impartial distribution of the fund. As soon as the exact balance ($271 26) was ascertained, that also was remitted to the same gentlemen, who have since made a very thorough report. Sixty persons received aid in sums varying from $25 to $250 each. No distinctions were considered beyond their several needs and their fitness to claim relief from this particular fund, as explained in the letter of instructions from the New-York to the Chicago Committee.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

From a Traveler.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

For the last three months my business has forced me to travel, chiefly in the central part of this State. Most of us like to hear of the good opinion of our friends and patrons.

The reputation of the TIMES may be such that it feels indifferent to that good opinion. Everywhere the TIMES seems to be rapidly growing in the public estimation. Its accurate statements, its intelligent exposition of principles, its bold exposure of financial frauds, and bolder defense of political and personal rights, are everywhere spoken of in terms of the highest commendation. Nowhere have I heard it evil spoken of except in the large State institution located in this city and known as the "Auburn State Prison."

An interesting statement regarding the comparative merits of the TIMES and another New-York journal was voluntarily made to me at a small town of a few thousand inhabitants, situated in the rich valley of the Mohawk, a few miles above Schenectady. It is worthy of note, and emphatically true in this town.

At the time of the Cincinnati Convention there were sixty-two copies of the Tribune received daily at the Post-office of that town; now there are two copies only. At the time above-mentioned there were four copies of the TIMES received daily at the same office; now there are sixty-four. D.

A Very Important Correction.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your paper of today—Wednesday—you state, in regard to the decoration of Commander of the Médijieh given to Col. VANDERBILT ALLEN, that you believe that "Col. ALLEN is the first American officer who has received such a mark of distinction." Allow me to correct your mistake. Major-Gen. T. P. MOTT received, in 1868, the rank and decoration of Grand officer of the Order of Médijieh from the Sultan, and has lately received the rank and decoration of Grand Officer of the Order of the Osmanieh, which was asked for for him by the Viceroy from the Sultan, as he could not confer any higher rank than that of Commander of that order, as it is the highest order of the Ottoman Empire.

The Viceroy conferred upon Brig.-Gen. STONE the order of Commander of the Osmanieh some time since, and there are several other officers who have received from the Sultan decorations of the order of the Médijieh. As Gen. MOTT is at present in the United States, upon a six months' leave, I think it but right to correct the mistake, and I am willing to refer to him for a corroboration of this statement.

EGYPTIAN TRAVELLER.

WEDNESDAY, June 26, 1872.

A Word from the Non-Strikers.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Will you kindly allow space in your columns to bring before the public the following, in behalf of the mechanics who do not favor the present strike; In the first place, we insist upon our right to work any number of hours, at any price which we may see fit to agree upon with our employers, and deny the right of any body of men who may wish to work less hours, or for more wages, to prevent us, by intimidation, violence, or any other means, from pursuing our legitimate callings, and gaining a support for our families in a manner which may appear to us the best. This infringement of our privileges is now attempted by the eight-hour men, who, while arrogating to themselves the liberty of working the number of hours they desire, refuse us the same liberty, viz.; that of working the number of hours we wish, and would force us by threats and violence to submit to their despotism, despoiling us of our rights as American citizens, and the exercise of that freedom guaranteed us under the Constitution of the United States.

2. We would urge employers to organize, and to take such measures that those who wish to work on the old system may be effectually protected from violence.

3. Should the butchers, bakers, tailors, and other similar trades, be successful in carrying out the eight-hour principle, its effect will be to deal the laboring classes generally a direct blow by causing a rise at once in the absolute necessaries of life, and making it still more difficult to gain a respectable living in this already too extravagant city.

4. We have no hesitation in saying that a great part of the mechanics now on strike have no heart in the matter, as was manifest by the failure of their parade. Many are opposed strongly to it, and only deterred from resuming work by threats of violence from the gangs who congregate around the liquor-stores, bringing the name of "mechanic" into disrepute, and who, in their half-intoxicated fury, are capable of any outrage. These last are generally utterly worthless as mechanics, ready for any disturbance, and frequently lead astray, for a time, thoughtless but worthy men, who, though fearless as far as mere personal danger is concerned, are mostly married, and must remember that there are a wife and little ones at home dependent on them for their daily bread, and if, by their opposition, they incur the vengeance of one of these gangs, those dear ones will be reduced to misery and abject poverty. It is for this reason that threats of violence have so much weight.

5. We would most earnestly appeal to all mechanics opposed to the present strike, to organize and show their strength, and let the public know their views, and understand that their opponents cannot carry everything their own way, nor lay down arbitrary laws to prevent a skillful, industrious man from working in the manner that he may deem to his greatest advantage. Call on your employers and the civil authorities for protection, or insist upon exercising those rights which are justly due to us as can citizens, and which no body of men by violence or any other means can take from you.

Some of the eight-hour men threaten to "tear the hearts out," "smash the skulls," "cut the bowels out," &c., of all who oppose them, and we know that their half-intoxicated gangs would not hesitate to carry their threats to execution the first favorable opportunity that occurred, on the way home, or any dark night, as witness the shooting of a carpenter a few days since. It is an actual danger to us, and we have wives and families dependent on us. We respectfully solicit, therefore, that you will allow this to appear in your paper without our signatures. We wish to lay our case before the public and start some opposition to the despotism the eight-hour men are attempting to exercise over us.

Pardon us for occupying so much of your space. Our only excuse is, that this matter is of great importance to us, and we hope to urge the non-strikers into organizing and acting, instead of allowing themselves to be walked over and trodden upon.

Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

AMERICA,
GERMANY,
IRELAND,
ENGLAND.

The Manila Diario of April 30 gives the following account of the recent fire in Manila:

"The evening before last Señor AYALA'S sugar factory, godowns and offices at San Miguel (seven miles from Manila) were destroyed by fire. It commenced in the godown in which the sugar-bags were stored, and was not discovered till it had made great headway, and had become highly dangerous to the adjoining buildings, outside of Señor AYALA'S compound, in which were stored a very respectable number of pipes of alcohol. The cause of the fire and the value of the property destroyed is unknown to us, but we hear it was insured. We have to report another fire of greater magnitude than the above. Balinag—one of the richest, most populous, and most industrious towns of Bulacan (the next province to Manila) has disappeared—was reduced to ashes in little over an hour on Saturday last. It commenced in an oil manufactory, and in one hour 500 houses in the centre of the town were burnt down, entailing a loss of $800,000. Scarcely anything was saved by the inhabitants, and the misery and suffering they are undergoing is indescribable. The fire we reported a day or two ago at Aliaga, in Nueva Ecija, (next province to Ruisan,) was unfortunately a large one, 100 houses having been destroyed. On Saturday at 9 P. M., the carriage manufactory of GARCHITORENA & SMITH, in the Escolta, (in the very centre of the business part of Manila itself,) was discovered to be on fire, and caused the greatest alarm, but

☞ ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY'S FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

Are being absorbed by an increasing demand for them.

Besides being the obligation of a wealthy corporation, composed of men of experience and high-toned commercial integrity, they are secured by a first mortgage on the road, revenues, land grant, franchise and equipments, combined in one mortgage, and are readily negotiable both in the markets of this country and Europe.

A liberal sinking fund provided in the mortgage deed must advance the price upon the closing of the loan. Principal and interest payable in GOLD. Interest at eight (8 p. c.) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, free of tax. Principal in thirty years. Denominations, $1,000, $500 and $100, Coupons or Registered.

Price 97½ and accrued interest in currency, from Feb. 15, 1872.

Maps, circulars, documents and information furnished.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York.

The diminished quantity of these Bonds for sale, and the increased demand absorbing them, warrant the belief that they will soon be sought for at an advance considerably above the present subscription price at which they can now be had through the principal banks and bankers throughout the country, and from the undersigned, who unbesitatingly recommend them.

TANNER & CO.,

Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.*

The Springfield Republican publishes a long yarn entitled "Grandma's Mistake, and What Came of It." We have not read it—but it is doubtless an account of Grandma BOWLES' visit to Cincinnati, and how she was jockeyed by FENTON, and how she mingled her salt tears with those of CARL SCHURZ over GREELEY'S nomination. The Republican will continue its story to-morrow under the head of Grandma's Repentance, to the tune of the "Heart Bowed Down by Weight of Woe."

The Tribune, although it is "not an organ," feels bound to defend Mr. GREELEY against the theory that his present attitude toward the Democrats is humiliating. It says that neither Mr. GREELEY nor the Democrats "feel humiliated." Doubtless. There are some folk who can sit down to no end of dirt with toads in it, and not be at all sickened. GREELEY and the Democrats have been fighting, reviling, ridiculing, "spitting on" each other for twenty-five or thirty years. The hatred has been from the bottom of the heart in both cases; and in both it has found expression in words that it would seem could never be forgotten; and yet one party ducks to the other, and the latter takes up the former; they "hitch horses" and drive on together. What for? Simply that one of them may get a great office next year, and that the other may work its cards so as to get control of all the other offices. A more disgraceful bargain never was made. What but disgrace and disaster could be expected from an administration that had its birth in such a stupendous "dicker?"

That REUBEN E. FENTON went to Cincinnati to get GREELEY nominated, and that he left Cincinnati with the conviction that he had succeeded in his purpose, is proved by his telegram to Mr. WHITELAW REID. The interest which Mr. GREELEY, in his turn, takes in FENTON'S fortunes—in fact, the partnership which exists between them—is proved by the following plain statements from Mr. GREELEY'S pen:

"For more than a year, to be an avowed friend of Gov. FENTON was to be marked for proscription at the White House. We propose to endure this for One Term only."—Tribune, April 25, 1872.

And again—showing the true origin of a grudge of which the public have heard a great deal:

"When Mr. MURPHY was made Collector, about half his subordinates were of the 'Fenton' persuasion; when he resigned, if there were a single 'Fenton' head within his reach we do not know whose it was. Mr. MURPHY has done his utmost to defeat Gov. FENTON'S re-election in 1866, running his bogus Republican General Committee in support of HOFFMAN & Co. He has carried two successive State Conventions for Gov. FENTON'S enemies by the most unsparing use of his immense patronage to this express end."

Can any one doubt the evidence of these facts, or pretend to deny (what is notorious in this State) that FENTON and GREELEY are the Siamese twins of politics?

Facts are worth more than promises. The Republican Party has taken off one hundred and forty millions of taxes in three years, while reducing the national debt more than three hundred millions. This has been done by the honest collection and honest disbursement of the national revenues. Are the mere promises of the Democracy worth more than these solid facts?

A movement is on foot in this State, and in the West, to secure an organization of those Democrats who will not support Mr. GREELEY, even if he be nominated at Baltimore. It is a matter in which real Republicans take little interest, for they foresee no difficulty, by fair argument and hard work, in defeating their opponents, whether combined or divided. But it will be an indication of good sense on the part of the Democracy, if any section of the party can be found to contend against the immoral and disgraceful bargain about to be consummated by means of a packed Convention at Baltimore.

The World, which sets spies to dog the footsteps of Gen. GRANT, had better turn its attention to the following statement:

"HOFFMAN—Gov. JOHN T. We are authorized to announce that this gentleman and family will spend the Summer at Newport. Rooms have been engaged at the Ocean House.

This is not the first time this shameful abandonment of the post of duty has occurred. Regularly as Gov. HOFFMAN has concluded the work each session of signing the bills TWEED had decreed should become laws, and of approving the legislation Tammany desired in its interests, just so regularly has he fled to Newport, as if he fancied he could wash out the taint of Tammany in the surf which rolls up its sands. If he could, then New-York might have willingly spared its Governor, and fallen back upon Lieut.-Gov. BEACH with equanimity."

Not one word of this desertion of his post by the Governor do we hear from the World, or its Tammany ally, the Tribune—nor do we hear a sentence about the shameful nepotism on the part of the Governor in appointing his father-in-law, Mr. STARKWEATHER, to an office which brings him in hundreds of thousands of dollars. From these facts you can get at the true ideas of the Tammany gang on the subject of "Reform."

It is evident, from the proceedings at Trenton yesterday, that Mr. GREELEY can have the votes of the New-Jersey delegates at Baltimore, provided he will indorse the Democratic past, and give satisfactory guarantees to serve it well in the future. But it is also evident that after he has suffered this humiliation, he is not to have the electoral vote of the State. No fact can be more plain than that the Greeley candidacy has split into two the Democratic Party of New-Jersey. We believe it will have that effect in every State, and therefore we sincerely hope that he will get the nomination at Baltimore.

Judge MCCUNN'S counsel have retired from the conduct of his case before the Senate on grounds which should, apparently, have deterred them from appearing there at all. The Senate will, we presume, perform its obvious duty to the people, by disposing of MCCUNN'S case on its merits and without reference to the ruse of counsel and the threat of appeal with which their remarkable letter closes.

The Revival of Tammany.

Some doubt is affected by journals favorable to Mr. GREELEY, concerning the existence of a combination between the Greeley faction in this State and the Tammany leaders. No one familiar with the facts can share this doubt. The evidence is overwhelming that the Tammany men are straining every nerve to regain their foothold, and that their only hope of success lies in the co-operation of the Greeley men. It is well enough for gentlemen in the remote editorial rooms of Cincinnati and Chicago to assume that this is not so, but if the people of this City and State do not want to lose all the hard-earned fruits of last Fall's victory, it will not do for them to ignore the obvious facts. We have already called attention to the declaration of a number of the local Tammany Clubs in favor of Mr. GREELEY. If there is any doubt that these subordinate gangs speak to order, it must be among those who do not understand the way the Tammany machine is run. But we are not left to the action of the minor organizations for evidence that Tammany is preparing to resume its old rôle in the affairs of this City and State. Indications that this is the case are afforded at intervals by the journals most familiar with the plans of the Ring. The New-York Sun, for instance, a paper that has done much dirty work for Tammany, yesterday informed the public that the Americus Club is "reviving." The "Americus" is a precious coterie of political outlaws, famous as one of the inner circles of the Ring. After the last election this Club was broken up. The diamond pins of the members were offered at a sacrifice, the gorgeous Club-house was closed, and the rich property of the Club—which had cost the people of New-York more than half a million of stolen dollars—was announced as about to be sold under the Sheriff's hammer. The members very reasonably inferred that they would in the future have very little need of a place of sea-side resort in, which to squander the plunder of the City Treasury.

The results of last Winter's legislation, however—results directly traceable to a combination of Greeley Republicans and Tammany Democrats—have taught them differently, and they are "reviving" their Club. They perceive that their leaders are not yet in prison; they learn that they are still possessed of political power; they have tasted afresh the delights of political buying and selling; and they feel that there is yet "business" for them in the future. And so, while the Greeley faction is busy making ready to give the State into their hands again in November, they are preparing, with cynical indifference to public opinion that has amounted to so little, to resume their revelries. One of their number purchased the Club property at the Sheriff's sale for an insignificant sum, and a meeting was called on Tuesday night to receive it, and dedicate it anew to the pleasures of the scoundrels who a few months ago fled from it with the vision of State Prison before their eyes. We are told that the meeting was held in the notorious Metropolitan Hotel, in a room decorated by the lavish hand of a GARVEY, and furnished with the unstinted luxuriance of INGERSOLL & Co. The assemblage was presided over by the illustrious Boss himself, "who extended a hearty invitation to all to help themselves to the champagne and other refreshments plentifully provided." Among those who partook of luxuries, which must have reminded them of the happy days when such things were "reckoned" in the Court-house bills, were BILL TWEED, OWEN W. BRENNAN, MACGREGOR, of the Department of Buildings; "Judge" SHANDLEY, of the "Shandley Legion," which bullied the last year's Democratic Convention into letting TWEED alone; "Judge" HOGAN, and a score of minor celebrities.

Here is food for reflection. Among the first fruits of Mr. GREELEY'S plotting for the Baltimore nomination is the revival of this most shameful of all the Ring's flaunting advertisements of their plunder.

It was bad enough when the Legislature adjourned, and left HALL and FIELDS in office, and TWEED a Senator. But those who contented themselves with the thought that at least there was no danger of the Ring's again fastening itself on the City, may now see that they were too fast in coming to that conclusion. TWEED is making ready his festivities in the anticipation of victory, and of that victory, in the City and in the State as well, he could have no shadow of hope but for the coalition he has formed with the followers of HORACE GREELEY.

Cæsar in the Coliseum.

If any additional evidence were needed of the dangerous character of Gen. GRANT, and of his total unfitness to be President of a free people, it is afforded by his extraordinary movements during the present week. Disregarding the solemn warnings of that "vigilant sentinel on the watch-tower of freedom," CHARLES SUMNER, of Massachusetts, we behold our modern Cæsar, after indulging his accustomed "seaside loiterings" at Long Branch, boldly continuing his triumphal march to Massachusetts Bay, entering the "Hub of the Universe" with the air of a conqueror, and stalking with giant strides into the very centre of the Coliseum, there to receive the plaudits of seventy thousand of his slavish subjects. Well may the Ciceronian SUMNER exclaim: "On what meat does this our Cæsar feed that he should grow so fat?" It was bad bad enough for the President, in these perilous times, when Congress is not in session, and SCHURZ, TIPTON and BROOKS are not at the Capitol watching the safety of the Republic, to leave his official duties, and "revel in his horses and cigars at Long Branch;" but to wander off to the "Hub of the Universe," and there, under the very eyes and nose of CHAS. SUMNER, to make such a display of Cæsarism and "personal government," was an act of bravado and impudence such as no man but Gen. GRANT could ever have been guilty of. We must give him up if he thus rides remorselessly over an abject people.

We shall expect the "Liberal" organs throughout the country to represent this last movement of the tyrant and usurper in all its enormity. The vigilant spies whom they keep constantly on his track will, we doubt not, be able to discover abundant proofs of the dangerous and degraded character of the man before he leaves the "Hub." We shall expect to hear that he attended a score of horse-races and cock-fights; that he was found drunk every day on the Common, and that at midnight he was seen sitting like a Sphynx or a Nero, smoking his cigar on the top of Bunker Hill Monument, while the British Grenadiers played "Rule Britannia" in his very teeth. All these things, and more, we shall expect to see dished up during the campaign in a new and fresh oration by Mr. Cicero SUMNER, devoted to "Cæsarism," "Nepotism," "Personal Government" and "Gift-bearing Greeks." This oration, we understand, is already in course of preparation, and advance sheets of a portion of it have been sent out from the orator's study to several "independent journalists," for their inspection. It will contain several new and startling proofs of the diabolical designs of Gen. GRANT on the liberties of the people—proofs that have come into the possession of Mr. SUMNER since the delivery of his last oration, and that cannot but produce a profound sensation on the public mind.

Without wishing to violate confidence, or to forestall public expectation, we may be permitted to state one—and perhaps the most significant one—of these proofs. A letter has recently come into Mr. SUMNER'S possession, written by Gen. GRANT, in which the letter "d" in the word President (which is several times used in the epistle) is invariably found to be written in a larger and bolder hand than the other letters comprising the word. Mr. SUMNER, with that quick intuition which characterizes his mind, and with that thorough knowledge of history and of historical characters, for which he is so famous, has detected in this remarkable tendency of the President to employ the letter "d," an infallible indication of the first encroachments of that "personal government" which he has already shown to be the leading trait in Gen. GRANT'S Administration. Mr. SUMNER infers (and all history goes to confirm the inference) that Gen. GRANT secretly designs to found an imperial dynasty on the ruins of this Republic, and that, with his habitual nepotism, he designs further that, after his death, the imperial mantle shall fall on the DENT family. Hence his chronic tendency to capitalize the letter "d" in writing the word President. Mr. SUMNER has no doubt, judging from analogy and historical precedent, that if GRANT should be re-elected President, he would thereby become so emboldened by success that he would forthwith issue an edict commanding the people of the United States to forever write the word President thus—"PresiDent"—in order that they may become familiarized with the name of the coming dynasty. The question has been referred to Mr. BANCROFT DAVIS, and he is fully of opinion that between President GRANT and "British writers," the country must very soon go to the Dev— we mean the DENTS.

We trust that the free people of this country will seriously reflect upon this and other dark omens which are being made manifest during the Presidential canvass, and which so gravely threaten to obscure the horizon of their liberties. It is quite time that they transferred their allegiance from the sullen and grim-visaged warrior, who is now plotting the destruction of the Republic, to the peaceful, placid and prattling woodchopper of Chappaqua—from the "tyrant" GRANT to the Tammany "philosopher" GREELEY.

Where is the Defense?

In another column will be found a comprehensive summary of the charges which we have made and sustained against Gov. HOFFMAN, while occupying the position of Mayor of New-York. We have placed the following facts entirely beyond dispute:

I. During the first six months of 1868, Mayor HOFFMAN authorized the payment of $679,243 73 of public money to the firms which have since become notorious for their complicity with the knaveries of the Ring.

II. Though these firms had not earned so disreputable a distinction in 1868 as they have since attained, it was apparent on the very face of their claims that they were of a fraudulent character. This was especially so in the claims of INGERSOLL & Co., INGERSOLL, WATSON & Co., GARVEY, KEYSER and MILLER, amounting during the six months to $368,000.

III. Many of the vouchers on which money was paid to these five firms were not made out in items—an obvious and unmistakable violation of law.

IV. Those which did specify the articles reveal overcharges of so gross a character that it was impossible to overlook them.

V. In nearly every case the sworn affidavit of the tradesman presenting the bill was wanting, a fact which of itself ought to have prevented its payment.

VI. The division of the proceeds of these fraudulent bills has been clearly traced to the bank accounts of the tradesmen in whose name they were paid, and to some extent through the accounts of the officials who profited by them.

VII. While directly responsible for the loss of the money which he permitted to be drawn from the public Treasury under false pretenses, HOFFMAN is no less responsible for the issue of the fraudulent warrants, amounting to $3,000,000, signed by COMAN as acting Mayor during the last six months of 1868.

VIII. There are undoubted proofs that HOFFMAN deliberately made way for COMAN to do the disreputable work which he was base enough to wink at, and not honest and manly enough to stop.

These points will receive from us such further elucidation as they may require. Meanwhile, where is the defense? Not a syllable of it has reached us yet.

Railroad Leases.

The subject of railroad property is becoming daily more and more important. The people of the United States who have money in railroad stocks or loans are to be numbered by hundreds of thousands, and if we include their families, they might be reckoned by millions. From the millionaire to the seamstress, who by years of toil and economy has laid up a few hundred dollars, there is no class of those that derive the whole or a portion of their income from capital, not employed in their immediate business, in which there are not a very large proportion of individuals interested in this kind of investment.

It is peculiarly desirable that property of this description should be so managed that those who put their means into it may know how they stand. But as a matter of fact, there is scarcely any kind of business that has so many and such complicated knots and twists in it as railroad financiering. These complications, in most cases, arise mainly from the practice, now becoming so common, of one road leasing or otherwise obtaining control of the property of another, so that a man who holds stock in a railroad, is thereby not only concerned in that particular road, but in one, two, or perhaps half a dozen or a dozen others.

It ought to be very plain, not only to experienced business men, but to intelligent men who have no great business experience, that a lease for so long a time as practically to be perpetual constitutes, in reality, a loan, of which the annual payment agreed upon is the interest. A company, for instance, which thus takes a lease of a railroad at seventy thousand dollars a year, practically, where the value of money is seven per cent., buys the road for a million dollars, and borrows the money to pay for it. But this very simple and obvious idea, which would at once suggest itself to any farmer of average capacities and ordinary common-school education, in regard to the lease of a farm, seems often to be entirely ignored by men noted for their familiarity with financial affairs. If a merchant were to take a store at thirty-five thousand dollars a year, for so long a time as practically to constitute a perpetual lease, these same men would not be long in reckoning, to all intents and purposes, five hundred thousand dollars among his liabilities, and the store as part of his property. Nor would they find any difficulty in understanding that if the annual value of the store should fall to twenty-eight thousand dollars, it would practically put him a hundred thousand dollars out of pocket. It is only in reference to railroads that men seem to be at all slow in seeing the application of this principle. People who travel on railroads are apt, as every one knows, to get a great deal of dust in their eyes. What in the literal sense of the words is true of railroad passengers seems to be in the figurative meaning of the expression no less true in regard to many persons in reference to railroad financial affairs.

The financiering of most of our railroads is conducted upon the assumption that the kind of property they hold will probably rise in value, and cannot possibly fall. Of course, if this were so, the greater amount of it that a company controlled the better for the stockholders. But no man can demonstrate with absolute certainty that any kind of property that can be named will not depreciate. If the annual payments by a railroad to holders of its loans, and to other companies, amount to four-fifths of its income after deducting working expenses, it is evident that a fall of twenty per cent. on this income would leave exactly nothing for the stockholders. There is a great deal of stock now above par which a permanent fall of considerably less than twenty per cent. would, on this principle, render entirely worthless. It is true, the rule works just as well the other way, and if a fall of twenty per cent. would bring the stock down to nothing, a rise of twenty per cent. would double its value. Many men understand this perfectly, and are willing to take the risk for the sake of the profit. Such individuals are generally those who can watch the business, and sell out in time to avoid any great loss. But a large part of those who buy railroad stock understand nothing about the matter; and this part is composed, in a very great measure, of those who have least opportunity of observing the working of affairs, and whose circumstances are such that the loss would come upon them with peculiar severity.

It is high time in these United States of America that the whole system of railroad financiering was looked after more closely. We do not here refer to legislative action. There is little to hope for from our lawmakers in this respect. The best we can ask from them is that they will let Rings alone, and not make them worse. But the public, and especially those who have money to invest, should give a degree of attention and study to the matter far greater than they now seem willing to devote to it.

The "Boss Barber."

The "Boss Barber" is usually a person of remarkable dignity of manner. This may arise, not only from the fact that he is a man in authority, having journeymen under him, but from his intimate knowledge of the capillary weaknesses of his customers. Within his breast is locked the secret of Smith's dyed whiskers, and Brown's bald head, and this knowledge gives him, in their eyes, a certain fearful importance. In his shop, the Boss Barber rarely condescends to exercise the active duties of his trade. He either stands behind the counter, and receives gravely the money of the shaven public, or he saunters thoughtfully from one customer to another, suggesting to the attendant journeymen those finishing touches which the master mind alone comprehends, and which, by a literal fore-shortening of the hair on the temples, or a hardly perceptible widening of the cleared surface of the shaved chin, give to both hair and whiskers their highest attainable perfection. He invariably prides himself upon his powers of conversation. "Yes; James is a fair journeyman," remarked an eminent boss barber, "but he will never rise in his profession. He has no conversation." He neatly comments upon the weather, and cunningly adapts his remarks upon politics to the presumed political views of his customers. The merits of his particular nostrum for the hair he leaves to be explained by his journeymen, and aims to impress his conversational victim, who lies helpless and prostrate in the operator's chair, with a lively sense of the honor conferred upon him by being the target of tonsorial eloquence.

The action of so important a personage is naturally of much interest to the public. Thousands will therefore read the proceedings of the meeting which the Boss Barbers held on Tuesday night. The result of this meeting was, among other things, the adoption of a rule that after the 1st of July all barber-shops shall be closed at 8 o'clock in the evening, except on Saturday, when they shall keep open until 11 P. M., and on Sunday, when they shall shut the door in the face of the hirsute seeker after shaving, at 1 in the afternoon. It was not a large meeting, and to those who are beardless, or who shave themselves, it will seem unimportant. The resolutions adopted, however, are of frightful importance to the great majority of our citizens.

Except on Saturday no one, after the 1st of next July, can be shaved after 8 o'clock on six days of the week. Not even the Boss Barber can put a limit to the growth of beards, or compel nature to cease her activity in this direction at any given hour. How, then, shall the man who is occupied until after 8 o'clock rid himself of his superfluous beard, or what resource will there be for the unshaven man, who, at 8½ is summoned by the Object of his Affection to escort her to a ball? Must he scarify himself with the reckless razor which his unskilled hand cannot control, or shall he refuse to heed the call of duty, and vainly think to explain his rudeness by berating the barbers in the presence of his Object? Either way he is certain to be a sufferer. No woman could smile on a lover variegated with sticking-plaster, and horribly suggestive of recent hemorrhage, while the attempts to make the female mind comprehend the complex miseries that follow the inevitable daily growth of the masculine beard, would be as hopeless as it would be humiliating.

And then let it be noted that the Boss Barber promises to inexorably close his door when the clock strikes eight. What, then, is to be the fate of the customer who, when the hour strikes, is but half-way shaved? Is he to be kept a close prisoner until morning, a prey to the loquacious barber who offers him the infallible hair-dye and the certain hair-restorer, and who refuses to hear his solemn protest, that he will die at the stake sooner than use either? Or is he to be turned ignominously into the street, with but one side of his face shaved, an object of wonder to men and women, and of loud derision to the small boy? Between the torment of tonsorial talk, and the shame of half-shaved publicity, there would be little choice. And yet to this miserable condition it is certain that many worthy persons will come when the 1st of July shall have brought into operation the new rule of the Boss Barber.

The worst of it is, there is no way in which to turn the purpose of the Rhadamantine barber. He holds us, so to speak, by the half-grown beard, and we are helpless in his hands. If we refuse to comply with his new rule as to the hours during which he will shave us, we must go bearded like the pard, while even the strangest and strongest oaths of the angry and unshaven man will fail to move the grim master of the razor and the shears. We must shave ourselves, go unshaven, or yield to the decree of the Boss Barber. He has us in his power, and he knows it; and we should, perhaps, feel grateful that he has not made it a rule to shave no one who will not first buy his hair restorer and his hair dye, and present him with written certificates of their wonderful efficacy.

MINOR TOPICS.

The Mercantile Library of Brooklyn is one of the most deserving institutions of its kind in the country. Thanks to the liberality of a number of wealthy and sensible men in that city, the Library has a building of great convenience and commodiousness, and of great beauty as well. During the past year there have been added ten thousand bound volumes to the Library. Most of these books were bought by the librarian in person in Europe, and are selected with admirable judgment. The arrangements for distributing the books, as well as the accommodations of the reading-room, are exceedingly convenient, and the institution is worthy of the liberal support we are glad to know it is receiving.

MACAULAY, in his essay [on Moore's Life of Byron, says that the leading principle of the heroes of those novels of the Minerva Press, which were the companions of Zara and Don Juan, was to hate their neighbors and love their neighbors' wives. There are certain aristocratic families in England whose members take as naturally to the pursuit of the conjugal property of other men as a duck does to water. The palm in this high-minded pursuit must be awarded to the house of PAGET. For three generations it has been facile princeps in what the vulgar call adultery, and "men of the world" gallantry. The first Marquis, the Waterloo hero, of cork-leg fame, was conspicuous in this respect; his successor distinguished himself as co-respondent in BELL vs. BELL and ANGLESEY, damages fifty thousand dollars; and now Lord HENRY PAGET has had a decree made against him in BROWN vs. BROWN and PAGET. In fairness to the gentler members of the family it must be added, that they, too, have evinced almost as decided a preference for other women's husbands as their brothers have for other men's wives; while in the records of jilting, no "girl of the period" ever achieved the fame of Lady FLORENCE PAGET—some time Marchioness of Hastings, and now Lady FLORENCE CHETWYND—when, at the eleventh hour, she threw over a gentleman to whom she was engaged—thus conferring on him, in the opinion of many, the greatest obligation in her power.

The "office-holders" in British India appear just now to have a hard time of it. Close upon the murders of Chief-Justice NORMAN and of the Viceroy, Lord MAYO, comes the account of an attempt inspired by fanaticism to assassinate Capt. MAYNE, the Magistrate at Mhow. A police peon, a Mussulman, having been arraigned on some charge, was sentenced to be dismissed the force, and his belt taken from him. Infuriated at this, the peon waited until the Magistrate was leaving his office, when he snatched up a sword and aimed a blow at his head. This fortunately fell short, but in the struggle which ensued, several policemen, including the acting Inspector, were badly wounded, and one fatally. Inspired by success, the victorious peon then charged indiscriminately upon the bystanders, and having put them to inglorious flight, completed his triumph by cutting his own throat. His funeral, the same evening, was largely attended by persons of his own caste, and was celebrated with all religious ceremony and honor. The prevailing impression among his own people was, that he had suffered martyrdom, and would be henceforth a saint in heaven. The spirit illustrated in this incident, as well as in the previous murders of the Chief-Justice and the Viceroy, proves that the Mussulmans of India are in a highly excited and dangerous state of mind.

Juries have frequently assessed the value of a man's life destroyed by railway accidents, and have valued it all the way from five to twenty thousand dollars. Other juries, seeking to set a value upon lost limbs, have also varied greatly in their estimates, but they have nevertheless shown that a man at retail, so to speak, comes much dearer to railway slaughterers than the same man would cost if killed by wholesale, or without the separate mutilation of his members. There is the case of Mr. DANIEL FRAWLEY, who has recovered from the Flushing and North-side Railway the sum of two thousand dollars for a single toe, of which that Company violently deprived him some time since. If one of Mr. FRAWLEY'S toes is worth two thousand dollars, it follows that his entire stock of toes would be worth twenty thousand dollars, or as much as his heirs would probably have received had he been killed outright. When the value of his fingers—estimated at the same rate as his toes—is added to the price of the latter, it is at once perceived that for any railway company to dismember him by degrees would be an exceedingly costly operation. The thrifty railway manager will learn from the verdict in Mr. FRAWLEY'S case, that hereafter no wounded victims of railway accidents should be permitted to survive.

It is not a cheering sign, this combination in both the Old and New World of employes against employers, and the prospect is not brightened by the fact that, in the general ignorance of politico-economic laws, the consequent reaction to the detriment of the employes should be so little understood or feared by them. Still, the world moves, and these things will be more clearly seen hereafter. When domestic servants organize a "union" to protect their interests and announce their aspirations, as at Dundee, and when a young Scotch girl, also in service, writes a novel, The Rose of Avondale, which is to be immediately published, fresh revolutions and surprises may be regarded as not far off; and among these we may confidently hope that a juster view of the respective rights and duties of labor and capital may be generally arrived at. Pending this, servant-maids, who are most charmed with the idea of the young Scotch house-maid becoming an author, will not do amiss to remember that if her novel succeeds she is unlikely long to honor her present calling, but will probably hereafter make more books than beds.

AFFAIRS IN CALIFORNIA.

LETTER II.

GRASS VALLEY, Monday, June 10, 1872.

In my last I adverted to the monopoly of the great railroad company, and briefly of the mining situation in California. Another great drawback to the prosperity of the country is the want of the same kind of currency that is adopted east of the Rocky Mountains. A purely metallic currency is behind the progress of the age. As a basis of trade it is all right, but in its practical uses as an every-day medium, it is ponderous and inconvenient. Besides, the idea of having two kinds of currency in one general country, with a different valuation, is preposterous, and operates to the great disadvantage of the people, while it becomes a medium of speculation to money-dealers. California money-brokers speculate on paper currency as your Wall-street brokers do on gold. It rises and falls as the value of gold does in Wall-street. Had currency a par value in California, or, in plainer terms, if your dollar was worth as much here as it is with you—that is, the face of the note—millions would have been invested by Eastern capitalists in developing the resources of the State, where not a dollar comes now, and so California would have had the benefit of a portion of the surplus money of your capitalists, an immense amount of property would have been open to improvement, giving it a money value, and thereby increasing the wealth of the State, where now it lays idle, without value, and no source of revenue either to the State or to individuals. Your capitalists invest their means where a dollar counts a dollar, and where there is no discount on it. Business men begin to see the evils of this state of things, and are generally desirous to introduce your currency, and my impression is that no great time will elapse before your sound paper currency will become the uniform means of exchange with us.

Another evil to the State, one which tends to centralize capital to a few points at the expense of the country at large, is the system of savings banks. They have absorbed at least sixty million of dollars, enough to affect the business of the State. This large amount of money has been contributed by depositors from all over the State. Like the streams which flow from the mountains to the sea, these deposits, in smaller or greater sums, flow steadily to the great receptacles of San Francisco and Sacramento, denuding the country of its circulation, to be locked up first in these banks, then to be let out either in the cities, or their immediate vicinity, at a high rate of interest. But a very small amount finds its way back to the country at large to develop its resources, so that the country is drained of its circulating medium, to build up the cosmopolitan city and its immediate surroundings at the expense of the country, leaving the latter, though rich in soil and minerals to an almost unparalleled extent, poor and comparatively helpless. It also gives inflated prices to real estate in the cities, while in the country real estate has but a nominal value. In the event of a financial crisis, when it might be necessary to call in loans suddenly, the effect would be most disastrous upon the prices of real estate in the cities, and wide-spread misfortune would ensue. Depositors would want their money, that money is loaned out upon real estate for time; the banks would be unable to realize at once, and be compelled, first to claim their right of thirty days' notice from depositors; second, to fall back upon their prerogative of compelling depositors to wait until mortgages could be foreclosed, a course of law to be gone through, and collections be made through the Sheriff. There is even more than a possibility that such a contingency may arise. Depositors place their money in these banks for the purpose of receiving a large interest. Whenever this interest is less than they can get for their money nearer home, they will naturally desire to withdraw their funds from the bank. As some of these banks have such large deposits that they find it difficult, and probably eventually will find it impossible, to loan their funds at a steady high rate of interest, depositors will be receiving less and less interest, and will desire to withdraw their deposits to place them where they can get more. This may throw the banks upon their reserved rights of compelling depositors to wait for collection; then the trouble will begin, and a financial whirlwind will sweep over the State. From a published statement of one of these banks made within the last two years it was shown that they had loaned out $17,000,000. To meet their prompt payments, they had besides collaterals in real estate, &c., less than $800,000 in coin. What effect would have been produced had one-fifth of their depositors demanded their money? We are an excitable people on the Pacific coast. If we do not "buck" at monte, we are ready when the mania comes on to buck at mining stocks, land grabbing, savings banks, or city real estate, in order to get rich suddenly at the turn of a card, or a strike in stocks, rather than pursue the old-fashioned way of

"He that by the plow would thrive,
Must either hold himself, or drive."

Monopoly and Rings are all the go. Do you want to sell a mine? Apply to the Mining Ring, offer a big inducement to get them to undertake it, and no matter whether the mine is good or not, a sale is effected. Have you a bona fide good mine? You can do nothing with it unless you apply to the Ring and get them to manipulate the market. Do you desire to operate successfully in stocks? Get inside the Ring and you are safe. They raise and depress prices at pleasure. Sell when they give the nod; hold on and you are ruined. Where there is one who comes out ahead, among outsiders, there are fifty who are either ruined, or are terribly singed. Do you wish to engage in manufacturing? Go to the city, for there is all the money; the country is too poor to afford you the necessary facilities. It may buy your product. Have you any spare funds? Put it into the savings banks, where it is locked up instead of circulating in your own neighborhood in developing its resources. Loaning money upon unproductive property may go on till everything in the State is under mortgage, for producing little and borrowing much will ultimately place the country in this position, but the end will surely come some day, and John Doe and Richard Roe will possess the State of California, but in a condition of moral and financial ruin. A few will be rich, very rich; the masses poor, very poor. With a soil and climate unparalleled for richness and salubrity, with the elements of a nation within ourselves, with all which might make a sort of earthly paradise, and effect the greatest happiness to the greatest number, rightly improved, we find our country towns either at a stand-still, property depreciating in value, some towns almost deserted, the mining interests of the State neglected, and business generally falling off, and the closest economy necessary to make the ends meet. It is not a pleasant picture, but such my observation leads me to believe is the fact, and I think we should not shut our eyes to the actual condition of things. A few are making money, a great deal of money; and this class will doubt my statements, but the great mass of people are doing but little more than making a living.

No better time ever existed for Eastern capitalists to make good and safe investments in California than now. Their money would get value received, manufacturing can be introduced at profitable rates. Money will buy its value, labor can be employed at living prices, and with Eastern economy and prudence California may be redeemed, and still claim its motto of the "Eureka State."

OLD BLOCK.

THE PROOFS AGAINST HOFFMAN.

1. While the Committee of Investigation appointed by the Board of Supervisors, of which Mr. WM. A. BOOTH was Chairman, found that the entire value of interiors of all of the armories and drill-rooms was but $202,000, HOFFMAN signed warrants for these purposes in 1867 and in the first half of 1868 amounting to.....$700,000
COMAN signed, in the last half of 1868, warrants for the same purposes, amounting to..... 130,000
Making in the aggregate.....$830,000 or more than four times the value which the Committee found in the buildings.

Subsequently, the warrants for the same purposes amounted to $3,220,000, making over four millions of dollars, or twenty times more than the value of everything which the Committee found in those rooms.

2. The bills signed by Mayor HOFFMAN were in favor of the same parties who afterward became so conpicuous in connection with the Tammany frauds.

3. Those bills, in many instances, did not contain the specifications of the work done and articles furnished, as required by the laws and ordinances regulating the form of the accounts, and the established rules and practices of the departments under those laws and ordinances.

4. On the face of the papers it appears, that in most cases the bills were not verified in the proper forms required by the laws and ordinances, which verifications are attached to the bills, and are submitted both to the Controller and the Mayor when their signatures are asked.

5. These defects are of the most material and important character; one is the absence of the oath of the party furnishing the articles or doing the work. That oath is very specific and definite. It declares

That the items are correct.

That the service specified and articles enumerated have been in fact performed.

That the prices charged are reasonable and just.

That the account has not been in whole or in part paid, satisfied or assigned.

That the account at the time the warrant is presented is justly due to the party asking for the signature to such warrant.

In most cases either that affidavit is wholly wanting or is not sworn to.

6. The certificate of the public officer is wanting in nearly every case.

7. It is well known that in the case of these fraudulent bills, the parties signing them refused to make affidavits to those bills, and the bills had to be passed without them. INGERSOLL, GARVEY and KEYSER, as far as is known, uniformly refused to swear to their own bills. It is well known that each of those persons has alleged that refusal as a defense for or mitigation of their complicity in the frauds. The officials who were the principals in these crimes were obliged to carry through the frauds without these affidavits. The men who consented to exaggerate their bills many times the value of the work, and to pay over to the officials the surpluses, nevertheless shrank from perjuring themselves by making those verifications to the bills which the laws and ordinances required, and which, in the ordinary course of business, were always submitted to the Controller and Mayor when their signatures were required. In all probability, the scheme would have been balked by the scruples of the mechanics who furnished the bills, had the laws and ordinances been complied with, and the affidavits of those parties been exacted before the warrants were signed. This shows at once how wise and necessary those forms are, and what are the consequences of dispensing with them.

8. It is undeniable that facility was afforded for the commission of these frauds in the cases in which Mr. HOFFMAN signed the warrants, by his omission to demand that a proper affidavit should accompany each bill, and also the proper certificate of the party representing the public.

9. It is equally undeniable that the $3,000,000 of warrants which he did not sign were signed by COMAN in intervals when the opportunity and the authority to sign them were created by Mr. HOFFMAN.

10. It is obvious that the real principals in the frauds, and those who chiefly profited by them, were TWEED, SWEENY and CONNOLLY; that WOODWARD was the agent of TWEED, and WATSON the agent of CONNOLLY, as far as their joint action for the common conspiracy can be separated. Three signatures had to be procured to every warrant—the signature of the Controller, CONNOLLY, of JOSEPH B. YOUNG, the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, and that of the Mayor—in order to make the warrant regular and capable of being presented for payment to the bank. The mechanics had been gradually educated, by being required to take back their bills to alter them, increasing the amounts, and presenting them again before they could get their pay. At the outset of this system, they were harassed and embarrassed by the refusals and delays in the payment of claims that were legitimate. They were then required to exchange their own checks with the agents of the Ring, for the portion going to the Ring, at the time the warrants went into their hands. Some of these checks were converted at once into bank-bills, for the purposes of distribution or of concealment. In all this machinery the most difficult part frequently was to obtain the affidavits and other verification required by the laws and ordinances. The mechanics adopted the loose principle that it was not their crime if they made out the bills for the fictitious amounts required by the public officers, to whom they ascribed the sole responsibility of taking care of the public interests. They began by saying, "We are private parties dealing with the public. It is our business to get out bills with liberal profit. To take care of the public interests is none of our business, but the business of the public officers to whom the people have intrusted their affairs." They thus became accomplices to the frauds, but in a manner that afforded their own consciences some pretense of excuse. But when it became necessary to swear to the exact statements required by the laws and ordinances, they shrank from the numerous and complicated perjuries which were involved. The agents of the Ring were compelled to get along as best they could without the necessary oaths. The power of the agents of the Ring to pass the accounts without the formalities required by the laws and ordinances became the pivot upon which turned the success of the whole scheme. If either CONNOLLY, the Controller, or YOUNG, the Clerk, or HOFFMAN, the Mayor, had refused to sign the warrants, in due execution of all the formalities required by the laws and ordinances, and in practice in the Finance Department under them, and if the mechanics had remained firm in the refusal which the records show they made, the frauds which began would have been nipped in the bud.

With the facts as shown in this and preceding statements, the question arises as to HOFFMAN's knowledge of the frauds that were being perpetrated during his absence by COMAN, as Acting Mayor.

That Mayor HOFFMAN did know that the bills which were submitted to him were not according to the forms prescribed by the Controller, that the laws were violated in almost every instance, and that there was evidence of fraud on their face, is undeniable. That he signed warrants in sectlement of bills of this character in the first half of 1868 to five firms, since notorious for their connection with the frauds to the amount of $868,000, for armories and drill-rooms alone, is a fact. Had he chosen, when refusing to further sign, to place his heel upon the head of the rapidly-growing monster, he could have killed it in its infancy. The evil increased five-fold in the last four months of that year. The men who have been proved to be the recipients of this stolen money were his confidential, intimate friends and supporters. It was their influence that was to elevate him to the Governor's chair. He could not afford to forfeit this, and yet, knowing he could not serve them under due form of law, he turned aside to permit COMAN to do what he was not disposed any longer to perform. The scruples of the Ring tradesmen stood in HOFFMAN'S way, and he withdrew. With that removed, his way would have been more clear; this could not be, hence the necessity for a Coman. From the evidence gathered, it appears that even some of the tradesmen, who were familiar with the secrets of the frauds, understood that the signature of COMAN was procured by agreement with HOFFMAN. This understanding was of a tacit character, yet parties are found who, in secret conference with the chief tools of the conspirators, have received from them the acknowledgment that HOFFMAN knew what was going on when these fraudulent warrants were being signed by COMAN. They also say that those who were "posted." were not surprised at the revelations made by the TIMES of the 4th instant.

THE EIGHT-HOUR DIFFICULTY.

Progress of the Strike Yesterday—Trouble Among the Men—The Railroads.

The eight-hour movement of yesterday presented few features of importance, although a little rioting was indulged in. The strikers were considerably disappointed upon discovering that no proposition had been handed in looking toward a settlement by the Citizens' Association, and that the report was a canard. The Cabinet-makers' Eight-hour League held a session in the morning in Teutonia Hall, and transacted their usual business. The men employed by BAXTER & Co. were all present. A mass-meeting will be held at Germania Assembly Rooms this evening for the purpose of a general consultation regarding the strike. The question of bringing action in the Courts against the policemen who were acquitted by the Commissioner, will also be considered. The metal-workers, at their meeting in the forenoon, sent out a committee to PETER COOPER, who said he knew nothing concerning the proposal for mediation attributed to him and the Citizens' Association. He thought, however, a conference between employers and employed would be a good thing. The Singer sewing-machine men intend to visit the shops today and take away their tools.

The Employers' Central Executive Committee met at the Hoffman House and received reports from different manufacturing associations. JOHN W. BRISTOW, of the firm of BREWSTER & Co., was elected Treasurer of the Committee. The Board of Iron Founders met at No. 456 Sixth-avenue. A series of resolutions was adopted, providing for the protection of the workmen who are willing to work ten hours per day, and agreeing that any workman who shall be disabled by the strikers shall have his wages continued.

A small body of the rockmen, on strike in the Thirty-first Precinct, collected and marched to the Twelfth Precinct. The Police were on hand to prevent disturbance.

The German cabinet-carving printers formed an association yesterday afternoon, the object of which is to adjust the scale of prices for printing, in view of the recent concession to the journeymen printers.

A communication was received by the Board of Police, yesterday, from Messrs. STEINWAY & SONS, piano-forte manufacturers, thanking the force for the protection afforded their extensive establishment, at Fourth-avenue and Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth streets, on four different occasions when danger was imminent from the strikers.

At about noon yesterday 200 men on strike visited the depot of the Second-avenue Railroad, and attempted to force the drivers to stop work. Mr. MURPHY, the Superintendent, sent word to the Nineteenth Precinct Station-house, and a platoon of officers arrived in a short time on the scene, and arrested the following parties: Arthur Mullen, George Kelly, Thos. Kearns, John Crawley, John Wilson and Francis Ellis. The prisoners were marched to the Yorkville Police Court, where they were all, except MULLEN, locked up in default of $10 fine and $1,000 each for good behavior.

The stablemen and cleaners employed by the Seventh-avenue, Eighth-avenue, Broadway and Belt Railroads, struck yesterday for $2 a day. They have been receiving $1 50 a day of fourteen hours' work. The railroad companies refused to give the advance, and called on Capt. KILLELEA for protection. New men were taken on by the Eighth-avenue Company, and on the Third-avenue line a force was guarded by Police to prevent the strikers from entering it.

JAMES-REDDY was severely beaten with clubs at a late hour Tuesday night, by four men in a liquor-store adjoining HICKS' livery-stable, on Fulton-street, Brooklyn, for working in opposition to the back-drivers' strike. TIMOTHY HUDSON, keeper of a liquor-store on Vanderbilt-avenue, was identified as one of the assailants.

The Brooklyn City Railroad Company has avoided a strike on the part of the conductors and drivers by raising their wages twenty-five cents per day, which gives them $2 50 for a day of fourteen hours. A similar advance was made in the wages of the blacksmiths and stablemen in the employ of the Company.

In consequence of the boiler-makers' strike in Paterson, the Dauforth Locomotive Works have been obliged to cancel contracts for the building of thirty-six locomotives. The manufacturers are firm in their resolution to resist the demands of the men.

The loss to the workmen will amount to $50,000 per week, and the manufacturers are confident that they will not long hold out.

Another gang of strikers visited the stables of the Fourth-avenue line, at the corner of Thirty-third-street and Fourth-avenue, at 8 o'clock yesterday evening, determined to intimidate the men employed on the road. Capt. WILLIAMS, of the Second Precinct, with a squad of men dispersed the strikers in a most rapid and effectual manner.

A Franking Abuse.

From the Commercial Advertiser, June 26.

Really, Mr. GREELEY ought to come out with a letter in condemnation of the reckless manner in which his friends are abusing the franking privilege. Undoubtedly the Tribune would publish such a letter, or what is better, republish some of Mr. GREELEY's vigorous assaults upon men who abuse the franking privilege by sending campaign documents by the hundred weight, ton, or car-load, through the mails. This would be refreshing reading now, and would show that "Honest Old HORACE" is as resolute and firm as when he could fire his shots at safe distance or long range. Let him turn on his Glenham House Committee and with uplifted voice denounce the enormity which they daily perpetrate. One of the old-fashioned deliverances will do. The men who thus prostitute their privilege for party purposes are Reformers. They cannot abear official misfeasance of any description, and the spectacle of a public man regarding his office as his personal property or as a means of gain for himself or his friends, not only brings tears to their eyes, but evokes ululations which may be heard from the Androscoggin to the wilderness where rolls the Oregon haply deaf to all other sounds but his own dashings. What acres of cambric have not these men saturated with the effusion of lachrymal ducts, as they have appealed to the country to look with horror upon the dreadful corruption which stalks unchecked in high places, and which actually sits in the seats of the Congressmen. How often have the Horatian numbers been invoked to lash the rascals naked round the world, who would dare to affix a frank to any document not specially provided for by law. This is the pet subject of attack by the Tribune and its gang. Upon whatever other subject they may be up, they never cease to inveigh against constructive mileage and constructive franking as the two cankers that are eating into the heart of the body-politic. But now we find this advocate of economy not only willing to saddle the people with his campaign expenses, but actually hampering the mails with the stuff he sends through them. The ordinary correspondence of the country is crowded and overloaded with the tons of reformatory literature to which GREELEY contrives to attach a free pass. We have read in the words of HORACE that the franking privilege is "legalized robbery and swindling." As it is now used and abused by that venerable fraud, it does indeed seem robbery. Yet this is the consistent saint who six weeks ago denounced the New-York Postmaster for placing circulars of a Grant meeting in the boxes at the office, when the postage was paid on them. Paying postage then was a greater crime than peddling franks now. The vagaries of the Farmer of Chappaqua are, indeed, past finding out. By next November, having denuded Westchester of its forests, he will be ready to "Go West" and begin life anew.

ALLEGED MALFEASANCE.

Ex-District-Attorney Morris, of Brooklyn, Charged With Receiving a Bribe.

In the proceedings in a suit before Judge PRATT, in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn, matters, yesterday, came to light which throw an implication of malfeasance in office against Ex-District-Attorney SAMUEL D. MORRIS. About two years ago a prosecution was instituted against one WM. J. FISHER, a notorious divorce lawyer, for subornation of perjury. After his arrest he was admitted to bail, ROBT. BOYD and CHAS. H. DAVIS becoming his bondsmen. When the case was called for trial, FISHER failed to appear, and he has ever since kept away from the reach of the officers of the law here.

Accordingly, on the 26th of April, 1870, suit was instituted against FISHER'S bondsmen. No complaint was served with the summons, and judgment was not entered until after Mr. WINCHESTER BRITTON succeeded to the office of District-Attorney. Mr. BRITTON, in looking over the papers left by his predecessor MORRIS, came upon the papers in the suit on FISHER'S bond. He at once notified the sureties, BOYD and DAVIS, to come up and settle, which they failed to do, and a judgment was taken against them for $5,020 09, by default. Yesterday morning the defendants made a motion to open up the default and to be admitted to plead, and presented affidavits in support of their motion.

The affidavit of CHARLES S. DAVIS, one of the defendants, sets forth that a day or two before Dec. 20, 1871, WM. L. GILL, a lawyer, requested defendants to call at his office, which they did on the 24th of that month. GILL then informed them that Judge MORRIS, the District-Attorney, wanted money, and intimated that they could have the case disposed of for a consideration, and that it would never be heard of again. Defendants wanted to know how much it would take, and it was ascertained through GILL'S agency that the District-Attorney wanted to raise $300 that day. The money was paid and receipted for.

The affidavits of S. D. MORRIS and CHARLES PEARSALL were also read.

MR. MORRIS, in his, says that he believes all the statements set forth in DAVIS' affidavit are true, but charges that GILL, who is alleged to have acted officiously in the matter, made false representations to both parties, and declares that he (MORRIS) did not receive money for dropping the case; that the reason why he suspended proceedings was because FISHER, having left the country, as he was informed by GILL, he concluded that they had broken up the nefarious business he was engaged in; and he did not think that the ends of public justice would be any further subserved by enforcing a forfeiture against the bondsmen, who would be greatly distressed pecuniarily by such a proceeding.

One of the affidavits states that Ex-Police-Justice CORNWELL went to the defendants, BOYD and DAVIS, and represented himself as the Assistant District-Attorney, and that he induced them to give him $100 on the assurance that nothing more would be heard of the case.

Judge PRATT denied the motion to set aside the default and admit the defendants to plead.

AMUSEMENTS.

Dramatic.

UNION-SQUARE THEATRE.

The musical extravaganza of "The Fair One with the Blonde Wig" was represented at the Union-square Theatre last evening. The piece is familiar to the admirers of modern burlesque, and those of our readers who do not share the general partiality for the worthless compositions which Miss LYDIA THOMPSON and her rivals have succeeded in reudering attractive, would find little to interest or amuse them in a rehearsal of its story. "The Fair One with the Blonde Wig," we need but say, offers the usual opportunities for vocal music and dancing, and is replete with local allusions, some witty and some trite. Mrs. J. A. OATES, in the rôle of Graceful, bears off, of course, the honors of the performance, thanks to an unflagging vivacity and to an ad captandum style of acting, which we cannot commend, but which is wondrous potent upon an audience of average culture. Last light the spade-dance of Mr. W. MAFL'N and the singing of Mr. C. H. DREW also afforded special pleasure. The programme remains unchanged, we see, until further notice. Mrs. OATES' engagement is to end on Tuesday next.

THE SINGLE SCULL RACE.

Match on Lake Quinsigamond Between Ward and O'Leary—The Former Wins by a Furlong.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 26.—The single scull race between ELLIS WARD and J. J. O'LEARY, came off on Lake Quinsigamond this afternoon for a stake of $1,000. This morning the weather looked very unfavorable for a race, a stiff cold breeze blew over the lake and a fine drizzling rain fell early in the day; the water was rather rough at the low shore points, but toward noon occasional pale rays of sunlight promised a fair afternoon. The rain ceased and the wind fell, leaving the course in good condition. The course was from the causeway in front of the Quinsigamond Hotel one and a half miles north-west to two stake-boats and return, making three miles. This lake is one of the most beautiful sheets of water in the country, surrounded on every side by hills and knolls covered with a rich growth of timber. ELLIS WARD, of Cornwall, N. Y., is so well known as the bow-oarsman of the celebrated Ward crew, which defeated the two great English crews at Saratoga last year, that but little description of his person will suffice. He is twenty-five years of age, and weighed today 162½ pounds, and was in superb condition, every set of muscles being plainly visible under his clear and transparent skin. His bright blue eyes fairly glowed with a superabundance of animal spirits. His boat is an exquisitely modeled shell, constructed by JEWITT at Dunston-on-Tyne, England. His temporary rowing head-quarters were with the Quinsigamond Boat Club, situated on the western shore of the lake, a little south of the hotel. ELLIS had no assistance in training, his own experience being amply sufficient. He practiced on the Hudson River at Sing Sing, before the 22d, just on which day he left his brother's house for the course on the lake. JOSH and CHARLEY WARD and JAS. TENEYCKE came on with him, and Mr. R. PERRY RUSDON, the stanch friend and backer of the WARDS, came on this morning, and this constituted the entire attendance from New-York. J. J. O'LEARY, of Worcester, Mass., is a very powerful looking individual, twenty-eight years of age, weighing today about 162 pounds. He is well known and admired as a sculler in Eastern waters, and especially here at home. JOHN BIGLIN, of New-York, has been here with him for several days, assisting him in his final preparations. He rowed a cedar shell from the same maker as the one rowed by WARD, and in boats no fairer match could be desired. Quite a number of Boston men arrived through the day, but betting was slow before dinner. At about 2 o'clock a general start was made from town. Coaches, wagons, and a dense throng, wending their way to the lake despite a heavy shower which fell. At 3 o'clock the sky brightened, and in very few minutes ELLIS WARD came out on the lake in his boat, dressed in blue knee-breeches, white rowing shirt and red colors. O'LEARY soon followed in his boat, looking a perfect Hercules, bare to the waist, with blue knee-breeches on, and white and blue colors on his head. They came in line at 3:20, and were sent on their way by the referee, Mr. E. B. HAMILTON. An excellent start was made, but after twenty strokes had been rowed WARD was seen to creep past his opponent, and the lead obtained was increased to five lengths at the stake-boat, and to a full furlong at the finish. ELLIS WARD has every reason to be proud of this work today, as his time over a full three-mile course is unequaled—21:28. The immense crowd, which had been decidedly in favor of O'LEARY prior to the race, now rushed to the boat-house where ELLIS and his friends had taken refuge, and gave him a perfect ovation. Crowds ran after the coach which carried him and his party back to the city, cheering lustily, and congratulating him in the most enthusiastic manner. All those who missed this day's performance on Lake Qainsigamond, lost the opportunity of seeing the most perfect and thoroughly artistic display of aquatic skill ever seen in American waters.

THE CORRUPT JUDGES.

Proceedings Yesterday Before the State Senate.

Counsel for Judge McCunn Retire from the Case.

Attempt to Prejudice the Public Mind Against the Authority of the Senate—The Prosecution Still to Go On.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 26.—Upon the opening of the session the Senate went into private session, and decided to pay witnesses fifty cents per day and eight cents per mile for the distance traveled by them.

GEO. E. HICKEY, sworn: He had known Judge MCCUNN for five or six years; had been Deputy Sheriff and Clerk in the Superior Court of New-York; my associations with Judge MCCUNN were political; have known HANRATAN some three years; became acquainted with him at the time he was appointed receiver in the case of CLARK and BININGER; I had charge of a portion of the property, not as a Sheriff's officer, but as a private individual; there was five of us who were this in charge some four or five months.

Counsel had offered as evidence an order issued by Judge MCCUNN, that three Deputy Sheriffs should be paid for taking charge of the property; also, an order to protect these parties in charge of the property. These papers were witnessed by this witness.

Counsel for the respondent objected.

Mr. PARSONS said he offered the papers to show that the use of the name of Sheriff O'BRIEN, in this case, was without his authority.

Judge SELDEN, of counsel for respondent, said that was not the proper way to show a fact, and the Senate sustained the objection.

Counsel read an order, issued by Judge MCCUNN, directing the Sheriff to take charge of the property which had been seized upon by the United States authorities, and asked the witness if the Sheriff acted on that order. The witness replied that the Sheriff had nothing to do with the property whatever.

Cross-examined by Mr. DEVLIN—I never received a dollar, nor did any one with me, for the services we rendered, neither did the Sheriff; I went by order of the Receiver, Mr. HANRATAN; I have been running three years for my pay.

To Mr. PARSONS—No, I did not get my pay, notwithstanding the order of Judge MCCUNN to pay me.

THOMAS BOESE, Clerk of the Superior Court, was recalled to identify an order directing that HICKEY and others should be paid $4,200. Witness said his opinion was that the order was in Judge MCCUNN'S handwriting, though he was not positive.

GEO. N. TITUS was next called and sworn: Am counselor-at-law; was BININGER'S counsel. (Witness was shown the receiver's bond, and identified it.)

Mr. PARSONS pointed out an erasure in the bond, and proposed to put it in evidence, as witness said he had not at the time noticed the erasure.

Mr. DEVLIN objected, unless counsel could show the erasure was made by the Judge with corrupt intent; the mere fact that there was an erasure was no evidence of corruption on the part of Judge MCCUNN.

Mr. PARSONS said he wanted to show that in reality there was no security taken from the receiver. The Senate overruled the objection. Counsel read an order issued by Judge JONES, restraining the sale of the property by the receiver, and the witness identified it. Witness said that this order was modified by Judge MCCUNN, so as to permit the sale to go on. Judge MCCUNN'S order was also read.

Cross-examined by Mr. MOAK—Do not recollect that my motion to vacate the order appointing a receiver, was based on the ground that the order was issued ex parte, but suppose that was one of the grounds; in making my application to Judge FITHIAN to vacate the order, I did not give notice to the opposite parties; my application was ex parte; it was denied by Judge FITHIAN.

The witness was cross-examined at much length by Mr. MOAK, concerning the orders and counter orders issued in the case.

FRANCIS N. BANGS was the next witness. He said: Am a lawyer, and was employed by the creditors of CLARK & BININGER to institute proceedings in bankruptcy. The witness detailed his connection with the case in that capacity and also as counsel for BININGER; he also stated the circumstances under which BEECHER, the assignee appointed by the bankruptcy Court, was arrested and brought before Judge MCCUNN for contempt of his order in taking possession of the property.

This witness was cross-examined at length by counsel for respondent, to show, as he said, that Judge MCCUNN was right in his possession; that the State Courts were entitled to precedence over the United States Courts. Witness detailed the various motions he made to set aside Judge MCCUNN'S orders, and which were denied.

JOHN S. BEECHER was the next witness. He detailed the manner in which he was forcibly taken before Judge MCCUNN, while he was acting as assignee, by two men, without the authority of warrant; after being brought before the Judge he was told that he might go. On his cross-examination he said that a paper had been previously served upon him to appear before Judge MCCUNN and show cause for contempt.

ABRAHAM BININGER was the next witness examined. He testified that the stock at the time the receiver took possession was worth between $100,000 and $120,000; there were other assets valued at between $40,000 and $50,000; the security required of the receiver was $1,000. Witness detailed a conversation with HANRAHAN, in which HANRAHAN told him it would be useless to attempt to have him as receiver removed, as Judge MCCUNN would not do it; witness complained to HANRAHAN that $1,000 was too small security for an estate worth $50,000, and HANRAHAN said he had voluntarily increased the security to $10,000. Cross-examined by Mr. MOAK—HANRAHAN told me he could not be removed after Judge FITHIAN'S order was issued.

JOSEPH A. HOFFMIRE was the next witness, and testified: Am the son-in-law of CLARK; saw Judge MCCUNN at CLARK'S house several times; at one time Judge MCCUNN said it would not be proper for him to be seen there; MCCUNN was there once with Sheriff O'BRIEN; witness was present when the settlement was proposed.

Counsel asked if MELVILLE CLARK'S account was correct, but this question was objected to and withdrawn.

The Senate took a recess till 3¾ P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

On resuming the trial, JAMES F. MORGAN was called, but failed to respond, and the Sergeant-at-Arms was dispatched for him.

EDWARD DUNNESS was then called, and he failed to respond.

After waiting awhile, JAMES F. MORGAN appeared. He testified that he was an attorney and conselor at law; is a brother-in-law of Judge MCCUNN; never was in his office; the receiver's bond was not approved by Judge MCCUNN; after the receiver took possession of the stock I procured the order from Judge MCCUNN, modifying Judge JONES' order; the reason he went to Judge MCCUNN instead of JONES was that the latter was not at Court. Witness was shown the account kept by HALRAHAN, as receiver, and stated amounts deposited. The account showed that the receipts were $2,704, and the expenditures $17,046 44. Witness had no pecuniary transaction with Judge MCCUNN, except the purchase of a house, for which he paid some $14,000. I was appointed receiver only once by Judge MCCUNN, and acted as counsel to two receivers appointed by that Judge. I was appointed referee in numerous cases. (This question was objected to and the objection overruled.)

The witness was cross-examined at length by Mr. MOAK, as to proceedings under the receiver, the sale of the stock, etc., and testified that everything was carried on in a regular and proper manner, and that there was no waste, so far as he knew.

During the cross re-direct examination of this witness, the President of the Senate laid the following communications before the Senate:

ALBANY, June 26, 1872.

To the Honorable the Senate of the State of New-York:

I inclose you herewith a letter just placed in my hands by my counsel, who have been conducting in my behalf the investigation now going on before your honorable body. It is impossible for me to disregard the advice of those gentlemen so distinguished at the Bar for ability and integrity, and therefore feel it my duty to yield to the advice of my counsel, and leave it to your honorable body to take such action in the premises as you may deem advisable.

Very respectfully, JOHN H. MCCUNN.

ALBANY, June 26, 1872.

To Hon. John H. McCunn:

DEAR SIR: The proceedings before the Senate of this State upon charges brought against you, and communicated to it by the Governor, have reached a point where, as your counsel, we consider it a duty to make the following communication to you. Before undertaking your defense, we were entirely satisfied of your innocence of intentional wrong in the transactions on which were based the charges against you, and we have thus far seen nothing to induce a change of the opinion with which we entered upon the investigation. Our examination of that part of the Constitution upon which the proceedings against you are assumed to be based, viz., all judicial officers, except those mentioned in this section, Judges of the Court of Appeals and Justices of the Supreme Court, and except Justices of the Peace and Judges and Justices of inferior Courts not of record, may be removed by the Senate on the recommendation of the Governor, of two-thirds of all the members elected to the Senate concur therein, has led us to the conclusion, in which we are supported, as we believe, by the action and opinions of two former Governors acting under the same or similar constitutional provisions, that an unqualified recommendation by the Governor of your removal was necessary to confer jurisdiction upon the Senate. This recommendation the Governor has not, in your case, made, and we are of opinion therefore, that the proceedings before the Senate are not warranted by the Constitution. The determination of the Senate to investigate charges for acts alleged to have been done prior to the time of the election under which you now hold your offices, involves of necessity a mere review of the propriety of your election by the people, a power which, we believe, is not conferred upon the Senate. If it can be done in one case it can be done in all cases of the election of officers coming within the provision of the Constitution which we have quoted, without reference to the conduct of the officers after their elections. Notwithstanding these convictions we were willing to aid you as far as our assistance could be of service, and the Senate, having determined that all the proceedings legal and usual, in Courts of Record in this State, in regard to the introduction of evidence and the examination and cross-examination of witnesses should be observed, we hoped not only that the investigation might lead the Senate to the conclusion that you ought not to be removed from office, but that nothing for which you were not properly and legally responsible would be admitted in evidence to operate elsewhere than before the Senate to your prejudice. We beg leave, however, to state, without intending any reflection upon the Senate or upon the gentleman conducting the proceedings against you, that our views in regard to the admissibility of much of the evidence produced against you, differ so widely from the rulings on the subject that we are disposed to question the propriety of our continuing longer in the position we have occupied, and to doubt whether our doing so would be of any essential service either in your defense, or in excluding the record of the proceedings against you of what we deem irrelevant and improper evidence. We, therefore, with your approbation, are disposed and we would advise you to that course, to leave it to the Senators, unimpeded by you, or as in your behalf, to make such disposition of the charges against you as in their judgment or their honor and duty shall seem just and right. If their judgment should be against you, which we earnestly desire may not be the case, the jurisdictional question to which we have alluded, will, as we believe, be open to review by another tribunal, if it should be our choice to present them there. Very truly yours,

(Signed) H. R. SELDEN,
JOHN E. DEVLIN,
A. C. DAVIS,
N. C. MOAK,
W. S. HEVENOR.

A decided sensation was created by this action. His counsel claim that the Senate disregard all rules of evidence for the purpose of putting a stigma upon their client.

After a few of these objections had been overruled by Judge SELDON, Col. DAVIS and JOHN E. DEVLIN were observed to be absent from the Senate Chamber a considerable time, and it now appears they were carefully examining the question of the jurisdiction of the Senate. The result of this examination was that his counsel unanimously agreed that the whole proceeding was a nullity, and advised their client to resume his duties as Judge in New-York, and leave the Senate to do as it pleased.

The communication was presented just as the hour for adjournment arrived, 7 P. M., and Mr. PARSONS, on the part of the prosecution, said he hoped this action would have no effect on the proceedings of the Senate. He was prepared to go on with the case.

The President said the hour for adjournment having arrived, the Senate would adjourn, and could to-morrow decide upon what course to take.

The Senate then adjourned.

HARVARD.

Graduating Exercises and Election of Overseers—Gen. Grant and Several of his Advisers Present.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BOSTON, June 25.—There were many reasons why Commencement at Harvard was of special interest this year, the presence of the President and so many members of the Administration being one of the most prominent. It is triennial year, and the publication of the catalogue tends to bring out a few more graduates than usual, and the list of degrees was the largest ever known. There was an unusual number of M. A.'s given, owing to the fact that after this year applicants will have to pass an examination before securing their second sheep-skin, and very many old graduates who had never applied for the degree, finding that the College intended making it really amount to something, thought they might as well secure it while it could be had for the asking.

THE GRADUATING EXERCISES.

It must have been largely due to these facts that, in spite of the threatening clouds and a thick mist, the exercises in the church this morning attracted an audience almost large enough to fill the house. At the conclusion of the exercises the usual degrees were conferred.

Honorary degrees were conferred as follows: Master of Arts, Thomas Motley, Ferdinand Beecher; Doctor of Medicine, Thomas Henderson Chandler; Doctor of Divinity, Ezra Abbott; Doctor of Laws, James Matheson, of England, Ulysses Simpson Grant and William Barrett Washburn. When the last two names were called the whole audience rose, although it was a foregone conclusion that the President and Gov. WASHBURN, on their first official visit to the College, would get that degree.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE ALUMNI.

A committee was appointed to secure a statue of Ex-President QUINCY, which is now in the studio of Mr. STORY at Rome. Hon. E. ROCKAWOOD HOAR was chosen President of the Alumni, and the rest of the old Board was substantially re-elected.

THE ALUMNI DINNER.

The annual dinner of the Alumni took place as usual in Massachusetts Hall, where about a thousand plates were laid. Hon. WM. GRAY presided in the upper hall, and after the meal spoke of the regret with which he relinquished the position of President of the Alumni Association.

President ELIOT made the first speech, and said: We greet, with especial satisfaction, the members of Peabody, trustees from Southern States, on our College benches. The sons of Virginia, of North and South Carolina, of Louisiana, used to sit side by side with the sons of New-England. We regarded it as a wholesome contact, and I am sure we would gladly welcome them all back again. We hail with pleasure the increase in the number of Southern States as represented on our catalogues, as a sign of the return of prosperity to the South. May it be an assured prosperity, founded on the intelligence and activity of an educated people! He spoke of the important rule which now prevents students from obtaining degrees without severe examination. The degrees conferred now had a serious meaning, and were of real value.

President GRANT was next called upon, and on rising was greeted with vociferous applause. He said: Gentlemen graduates of Harvard College, I wish it was in my power to thank you sufficiently and to express to you the gratification I feel at the reception which you have given me here today. I believe you are all of you aware, however, that public speaking is not my forte. Excuse me, therefore, if I leave it for some one who follows me to thank you in my place. I will designate Judge HOAR, who knows my failing in that respect.

Hon. E. R. HOAR spoke for about five minutes only. He thought that among the high titles to honorable memory of President GRANT would be his message to Congress commending national education to its care.

Gov. WASHBURN followed, and then came Hon. JOHN H. CLIFFORD, President of the Board of Overseers, who reviewed the work done by that body within the past few years, and contrasted the condition of the College now with that of twenty years ago.

Hon. ROBT. C. WINTHROP made a characteristic speech, taking occasion to refer incidentally to politics in the following terms: A State or nation may change or may try to change their Chief Magistrates as often as they will for good reasons, or for bad reasons, or for no reasons at all, at their own sovereign will and pleasure, but no brief term of administration, no system of rotation in office, no meagre one-term principle, will ever conduce to the permanent prosperity of a great Republic of letters like ours.

These words were received with great applause, and the pointed reference to President GRANT, who sat calmly smoking at the table, induced some one present to propose cheers for him, which were given with a will.

Rev. Dr. SEARS, Secretary of the Peabody Trustees, gave an account of the manner in which the funds were disposed of, and the gratification of some of the Southern towns at receiving assistance in the matter of education.

Gen. RICHARD TAYLOR, of Louisiana, also added a few words and the proceedings closed. The speeches were fully up to the average of past years, and great interest was manifested throughout the proceedings.

OVERSEERS.

The following overseers were re-elected: Edward H. Clarke, Le Baron Russell, Alexander McKenzie, Darwin E. Ware, Geo. W. C. Noble.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange, yesterday, Wednesday, June 26, JOSEPH MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, under the direction of JAMES H. COLEMAN, Esq., referee, sold the premises known as Nos. 127 and 129 West Broadway, between White and Walker streets, embracing two lots together in size 37.6 by 100 feet, with two two-story attic and basement brick houses thereon, for $32,000. The property was purchased by Dr. J. C. TUCKER, one of the parties in interest, and the price realized was considered very low. By order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of PHILO T. RUGGLES, Esq., referee, A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO., also sold the three-story brick house and lot No. 414 East Twenty-fifth-street, south side, 190 feet east of Ninth-avenue, for $7,900, the purchaser being PETER MCCABE. No other business was transacted. In regard to the suburban auctions of the day, owing to the continued inclemency of the weather, that at Bay Side, Long Island, JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., auctioneer, was again adjourned to to-morrow (Friday,) and that at Ruthurfurd Park, N. J., A. D. MELLICK, JR. & BRO., auctioneers, was postponed to the same day. In reference to the sales proposed at Greenville, N. J., LEWIS E. WOOD, auctioneer, and at Somers, Westchester County, HUGH N. CAMP, auctioneer, no report as to their disposition has been received, but particulars will be given to-morrow.

For to-day the following auctions are projected, the list being one of special interest: At the Exchange, sale by MULLER, WILKINS & CO., of fifty-four City lots and gores, formerly belonging to the Harsen estate, situate in the block bounded by the Grand Boulevard, Eleventh-avenue, Seventy-first and Seventy-second streets. Four of the lots, including corner, front on the Boulevard, and five on the Eleventh-avenue, while twenty-two front on Seventy-first-street. All full lots, with gores in the rear from 6 to 35 feet in depth. As we have before remarked, this property being exceedingly choice, the proposed sale is attracting general attention, and its result is waited for with interest. It is the impression that success will be achieved. The same firm will also offer, at a legal auction, a leasehold property on Sixth-street, near Avenue D, and JAMES M. MILLER, at a similar sale, will dispose of the fee of a house and lot on Seventy-eighth street, near Second-avenue. The suburban auctions projected are numerous, and are as follows: At Whitestone, Long Island, at 12 M., sale by JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., of 200 eligibly located lots. Special train, via Jamaica-slip and Thirty-fourth-street Ferries, at 11 o'clock. At New-Brighton, Staten Island, at 12 M., adjourned sale by J. M. PHELPS, of two houses and 450 very choice lots. Free ferry tickets at office of auctioneer, No. 82 Cedar-street. At West Dunnellen, N. J., at 12 M., sale by R. L. WILLIAMS & CO., E. A. LAWRENCE, auctioneer. of 200 valuable lots, special train from foot of Liberty-street at 10¾ o'clock, and at West Bergen, N. J., at 1½ P. M., sale by J. M. GIBSON of 100 desirable lots, special train from foot of Liberty-street at 1 o'clock. Today, also, the excursion to and sale of property at Mannanawkin, N. J., by order of the Stafford Land Company, postponed from Tuesday, will be made under the direction of A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BROTHER, auctioneers, and the steamer Jesse Hoyt, chartered for the occasion, will leave the foot of Murray-street at 9:40 o'clock. It is to be hoped that the weather will prove more favorable than of late for the consummation of these transactions.

At private contract, WM. H. RAYNOR, No. 5½ Pine-street, reports having recently sold four full lots on the south side of One Hundred and Thirty-sixth-street, 350 feet east of Seventh-avenue, for $12,000; and two lots on the southeast corner of Sixth-avenue and One Hundred and Eighteenth-street, 25 feet front by an average depth of 59 feet, for $13,000. WM. TUCKER, No. 220 Fifth-avenue, also reports having recently sold the following improved realty at the prices noted: House and lot No. 610 West Thirty-ninth-street, lot 25 by 100, $19,000; house and lot No. 204 East Fiftieth-street, $11,000; and house and lot No. 219 East Forty-fifth-street, for $11,500.

The Road runs from Buffalo to the Detroit River, and is the Eastern link in the new AIR LINE FROM BUFFALO TO CHICAGO, and has been under construction for about two years past by railroad men who have seen the necessity for a STEEL RAIL, LOW GRADE SHORT ROUTE between the great railroad systems which diverge from Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo.

Among the builders of the road, by whose cash subscriptions 220 miles (out of 230) have already been graded, bridged and made ready for the superstructure, a large part of the steel rails bought, all of the materials for the stations, and a part of the equipment purchased, are:

MILTON COURTRIGHT, JOHN F. TRACY DAVID DOWS, WM. L. SCOTT, HENRY FARNHAM, R. A. FORSYTH, HENRY H. PORTER, JOHN M. BURKE, M. L. SYKES, JR., B. F. ALLEN, all directors, either in the Chicago and North west, or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; GEO. OPDYKE, of the Midland Road; JOHN B. ALLEN, SIDNEY DILLON, DANIEL DREW, J. S. CASEMENT, J. & J. CASEY, O. S. CHAPMAN, JOHN ROSS, DAVID STEWART, and F. H. WINSTON.

THE ROAD will be

33 MILES SHORTER THAN ANY OTHER ROAD,

either BUILT or in contemplation between Buffalo and Chicago, and will also shorten the distance between Toledo and Buffalo twenty-three miles.

THE MAXIMUM GRADE on the entire line does not exceed FIFTEEN FEET to the mile—and Ninety-six per cent of the road IS STRAIGHT.

THE ROAD WILL BE COMPLETED and in running order on or before Dec. 31 of this year.

The principal and interest of the bonds are payable either in New-York, London or Frankfort.

We confidently recommend the bonds to all classes of investors.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE.

Commencement Week — The Improvements — Interesting Proceedings — A Lady Freshman.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HANOVER, N. H., Tuesday, June 25, 1872.

Commencement week at Dartmouth comes a month earlier this year than it used to. Falling into the fashion of the colleges, the trustees voted to lengthen the Summer vacation and curtail the Winter one. By this arrangement much of the Winter school-teaching, in which, for three months, many of the students—one-third, on an average—engaged, has to be given up. But Professors and students are not idle in the long Summer months. Three scientific parties, under charge of Dartmouth Professors, leave Hanover soon after Commencement. Prof. C. A. YOUNG and Assistant Prof. EMERSON leave for Sherman, Wyoming Territory, on the Rocky Mountains, on a spectroscopic expedition. Prof. YOUNG hopes that at the elevation of Sherman, 8,500 feet, the effect of the atmosphere on spectroscopic observations will be much diminished. This party go out in connection with the United States Coast Survey. The mathematical and other work will be done by another party under Gen. CUTTS, United States Army. Prof. QUIMBY, with a number of students, will superintend the coast survey of Southern New-Hampshire; while Prof. HITCHCOCK will continue his geological survey in the White Mountains. An amateur survey party of members of the Junior Class also visits the mountains.

To the new-comer Hanover seems much changed. He will wonder at the new and elegant Culver Hall; at the sky-reaching Medical Building, with its fine museum for pathological anatomy, built by the munificence of a New-York gentleman, E. W. STOUGHTON, Esq. Within a very few months the College has received over eighty thousand dollars, much of which has been expended in improving the buildings. Of this sum sixty thousand dollars was given by JOHN CONANT, Esq., of Jaffrey, a plain farmer, who by farming alone has made all his property. A secret society man will be interested in seeing the indications of a hall which Alpha Delta Phi is building under the wing of Culver. While, however, the new-comer sees these changes in outside matters, the same faces in the government of the College and the Faculty will greet him. The only change of consequence to be made in the Faculty is that of Mr. FRANK BROWN, the valedictorian of '70 and grandson of Dr. FRANCIS BROWN, former President of the College, takes Mr. CHASE's place as tutor in Greek. Two or three Professors are to be appointed for the Scientific School and the Agricultural College, but the gentlemen are not yet chosen definitely.

Our new-comer, of whatever class he may be, even if of that septegenarian class of 1822, which to the number of fifteen, celebrate this week, in Hanover, their semi-centennial since graduation—our new-comer would begin the week in hearing President SMITH's Baccalaureate Discourse on Sunday afternoon. He would find the old college church crowded to overflowing. Everybody comes to the Baccalaureate. The streets around and near the church are lined with the wagons and carriages of the neighboring yeomanry. The church was tastefully decorated, by the thoughtful care of those birds of passage who annually flutter in upon us for a too-brief season. The opening services were conducted by Rev. Dr. J. G. DAVIS, of Amherst, N. H. The choir was a quartet of ladies and gentlemen, a very pleasant variation from the usual student choir of a dozen.

The text was from the first chapter of James, fourth verse: "But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing." After an appropriate introduction, in which was exhibited that in morals, as in physics, there was a "corelation of forces," illustrated by the text, the preacher announced his subject—"The Grace of Patience." He spoke then, in order, of the nature of this grace, of our need of it, of the methods of its culture, and of its blessedness, and concluded with a touching address to the Graduating Class.

In the evening a large and appreciative audience, consisting for the most part of students, met again in the College church, to hear the annual address given before the Theological and Religious Society. This Society is a living force in the College, and under its direction a vast amount of missionary and religionary work is done. The orator of the occasion, introduced by Prof. SANBORN, was Rev. LEWIS O. BRASTOW, of St. Johnsbury, Vt. He announced his theme, as "The Religious Element in Culture, or, The Dependence of Culture upon Religion." Mr. BRASTOW'S exposé was surprisingly satisfactory. His address would be an admirable supplement to Principal SHAIRP's supplement of MATTHEW ARNOLD. While he fell behind Prof. SHAIRP in poetry and beauty of expression, he surpassed him in fullness of treatment and the grasp of the subject.

Yesterday, Monday, visitors began to pour in by all the trains. Quite a stir was created by the appearance among the prospective Freshmen—called in college slang, paenes—of a young lady! Her name is Miss KITTIE GAGE, of Nashua, N. H. She is a modest and retiring young lady, and comes very well fitted. No encouragement, however, is given to her of being admitted, although her case will be brought up as a form before the trustees. Several young ladies, it is rumored, are waiting for the doors to be opened.

In the evening of yesterday transpired the prize speaking. The speakers are chosen by vote from the Junior and Sophomore Classes; and this exercise is thus one of the most popular of the Commencement season to undergraduates. The programme for last evening was admirably sustained by the speakers of both classes. The selections of the Juniors were of a more sombre and oratorical cast than those of the Sophomores, and thus the latter held the house better. While the speaking of all was above the average, of the Juniors F. C. CLARK deserves credit for his perfect mastery of CURRAN's "Plea for Sheares." His deep voice, quivering with emotion, is fitted for such an oration. MAXWELL rendered ROBERTSON's "Influence of Poetry on the Working Classes" with perfection. EVANS plead for the Fenians with all the nervous energy and oratorical force that VICTOR HUGO, the original pleader, possesses. Of the Sophomores, DAVIS, ALLIN and BURNHAM were the most perfect speakers. From the fact that the six best speakers in each class are selected for Sophomore speaking, and that no one may come on twice, it might be expected that the performance of the Sophomores would be pre-eminently excellent. But this year the case was not so. The Juniors spoke fully as well as the Sophomores.

The speaking showed the careful training that the classes are subjected to under Profs. SANBORN and LORD. Very fitting is it that the College of WEBSTER and CHOATE should send out good orators.

The prizes were awarded, the Committee of Award being Hon. J. W. PATTERSON, Hon. DAVID AIKEN, and Rev. JOSIAH G. DAVIS, D. D., as follows:

The first Junior prize was divided between CLARK and EVANS, and the second was given to MAYO. Of the Sophomores, the first prize was likewise divided between DAVIS and BURNHAM, and ALLIN took the second.

Today is Class Day. What it may bring forth remains to be seen. FABER.

Alumni of the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary.

The Alumni of the Theological Seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church met this morning at the Church of the Transfiguration and partook of the communion administered by the Bishops of New-York and Missouri, assisted by Rev. Dr. VAN KLEECK. They then adjourned to Sivori's Hotel, and participated in the annual breakfast, which was served up in a sumptuous manner, the Bishop of New-York presiding. Resolutions of affectionate regard were read from the Bishop of Maryland, who was absent.

The Bishop of New-York said, that as long as he was able he would participate in these meetings, and expressed the wish that the common reputation for breadth of character and mind, as well as efficiency for work which the Alumni of this institution had gained, might always be maintained by them.

Addresses were also delivered by the Bishop of Missouri, Drs. FAIRBAIRN, JOHNSTON, EDSOM, WHITE and others, after which an adjournment was had.

The examination of the candidates of the Seminary concluded yesterday, and the successful students will be ordained at the Church of the Transfiguration on Sunday next.

OUR DEAF MUTES.

Exercises at the Institution—The Graduates Writing Impromptu Essays—The Deaf Mutes Attempting Articulate Speech—The Sign Language Applied to Poetry.

The New-York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb commemorated the closing of the academic year yesterday by the usual exercises. Through the courtesy of the Superintendent, who had arranged that the Yonkers special train should stop before the building, a large number of invited guests were enabled to visit the place by the Hudson River Railroad, a very great convenience, as the institution is located on Tenth-avenue and One Hundred and Sixty-second-street. This is a very charming locality, commanding a superb view of the Hudson River, and the finely-wooded heights on the other bank, but it has the disadvantage of being hard to get at for persons who neither possess carriages of their own, nor care to encourage extortion by hiring them. In the waiting-room, so completely had their faculties been developed by the admirable training they received at the institution, that it was utterly impossible to single out, from the group of fair ones conversing in the pretty, graceful, voiceless talk of the deaf-mutes, which were the afflicted ones and which were their friends. There was no sullenness on any brows, there was no sorrow in any eyes, nor any contraction of ruddy lips. All seemed happy and pleasantly excited, and it was only when the crowd left the cars and began to toil up the ascent to the college that those who could talk betrayed themselves by exclamations at the steep hill they had to climb. Half way up were pupils who had come to the verge of the grounds which they were at liberty to cross, and flew into the arms of their parents and relatives. A cynic would have smiled to see two sisters embracing in the fondest, most ardent manner, and not a word uttered, though they were women. But it was pleasanter to notice the hesitation which the mere visitors showed in speaking. They were silent, for the most part, from sympathy, and again because having addressed persons who were deaf-mutes without effect, they did not know who were and who were not afflicted. This was specially the case in the hall, where Dr. ISAAC PEET was receiving his friends. He spoke to everybody both aloud and with the signs, and, therefore, was sure to be understood; but the visitors who were there for the first time seeing a graceful and beautiful lady also doing the honors guessed that she was Mrs. PEET, which was quite right, and addressed her with the usual compliments. They then found, to their astonishment, that she also was a deaf-mute. The President, Rev. Dr. ADAMS, did not come, but Judge HENRY E. DAVIES, the First Vice-President, and Mr. SHEPHERD KNAPP, Mr. AVERY T. BROWN, Mr. BENJAMIN H. FIELD and Dr. FROTHINGHAM, among the Trustees, were present. After they had held a short meeting, and passed resolutions that the Carey Testimonial should be awarded to Miss MARTHA MAXWELL, and that the gold medal should be awarded to GEORGE FARLEY for general superiority, there was a general adjournment to lunch, which was served in the pupil's refectory. When this had been discussed, Dr. PEET led the way to the chapel, a building admirably adapted for seeing, though not quite so good acoustically, which proves that the architect knew his business. Dr. PEET and his principal assistant, Prof. OLIVER COOKE, then mounted the platform, and with rapid fingers, summoned six boys who had completed their studies. The guests were then requested to give six names of historical prominence, on which the boys should write impromptu essays. The following were given: John Hampden, Oliver Cromwell, John Adams, Abe Lincoln, Ben Franklin, Washington Irving. Each of the graduates armed himself with a bit of chalk, and attacked the blackboards, of which six stood in a row behind the platform. While they were writing, a boy named GUGGENHEIMER was brought forward, who had been taught to speak articulately and understand what was said by others by watching the lips. He comprehended very well, but pronounced so curiously, that at first the words sounded like Chinese. He pronounced "I thank you" thus, "Ai thay-ank ye-ou;" "Yes, Sir," became "Yet. tir;" and "five years" resolved itself "fay-i-af ye-ur." The s throughout was seldom articulated, except when it commenced a word. Another boy was then brought forward who, unlike GUGGENHEIMER, was not born deaf, but had become so by falling from the roof of a three-story house, which burst the drums of both ears, making him incurably deaf. He was seven years old when this occurred, and, as three years elapsed before he was brought to the Institution, he had forgotten how to articulate. But in some wonderful way they contrived to stir his dormant memory, and he pronounced some words admirably and others tolerably, but altogether much more intelligibly than the first one. It is just to say that as soon as the ear became accustomed to GUGGENHEIMER he could be understood. But there was this essential difference between them. One spoke like a foreigner who had learned English from books, the other like an American who had a queer accent. The next performance was as pleasing as it was pathetic, and brought alternate smiles and tears from the most stolid of the visitors. It was the rendering in signs of OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES' poem "The Voiceless," by a young and extremely beautiful girl, Miss FLORA JONES. The principal read the poem as an accompaniment, but as the hall is badly built for acoustics and he read in a low tone, very few heard him. It needed not his vocal commentary, for the graceful gestures of the girl were so striking, and her face was so animated, so emotional that it was impossible not to understand the general purport. Sometimes her face glowed with rapture, sometimes grew pale with passionate thought, the eyes would fill with sudden tears, and the head fall languidly upon the shoulder. Again a flush of joy would make every feature beaming and the dark eyes awhile moist with a divine despair, flashed radiantly and the whole form expanded with a full sense of happiness. Then the eyes were upturned to heaven, the rapid fingers drew a cross upon the air, and then lightly passed around the head the mimic semblance of a crown. As she stepped down to her place, the plaudits were almost deafening in vehemence, which, if she could not hear, she could see, for as her quick eyes caught the universal beating of palms, her bright face grew brighter, and she sat down in her seat as contented as if she could talk as fluently as the most nimble-tongued of her sex. And now the black boards were examined. Mr. GEO. FARLEY, who had taken JOHN HAMPDEN, wrote an admirable little sketch in a fair hand. Mr. SIDNEY H. HOWARD wrote a tolerably interesting account of WASHINGTON IRVING in a handwriting that was singularly beautiful. It is his heart's desire to be a copyist, and he requested the steward, Mr. BRAINARD, to ascertain if any gentleman wanted such a clerk. His character is very high, his attainments fair, and his hand-writing undeniably excellent. The other sketches were also of a high character, though the gentleman who took CROMWELL took a view of that famous commander not warranted by any history, and least of all by CARLYSLE's. There was much more that was deeply interesting, but the most amusing of all was the illustration of sign language by a graduate named W. G. JONES. He gave a series of illustrations of birds, in which the stork, the eagle, the crow and the humming-bird were most humorously rendered. Even more laughable than these was his illustration of snipe, the birds sticking their long beaks in the mud and the man coming after them with a gun. This was done with such animation and jollity that it produced peals of laughter.

PRINCETON COLLEGE.

Commencement Exercises—Degrees Conferred, Fellowships and Prizes.

Of the improvements at Princeton during the last four years, in addition to those heretofore mentioned, the most important is the new library. Mr. GREEN, of New-York, gave $120,000 toward its erection, and the building is in progress on the site of the residence of Dr. ATWATER. The edifice will be completed within the year, and will be capable of containing 120,000 volumes. The endowment fund has received an addition by the $26,575 bequeathed to the College by Mrs. SOPHIA H. KIRKPATRICK, of New-Brunswick, and subscriptions of considerable amounts made from other sources. Altogether there are at present sixty-three free scholarships, and the College is giving free education to sixty other students. Of the large sums of money given to the College, lately, most of it has been for certain specified purposes, but Mr. J. G. MARQUAND has lately given to the Trustees $100,000, for general purposes, a gift which has relieved them of difficulties arising from a want of money under their immediate control. The donation will probably be used to found a School of Science, which the trustees have already agreed to do.

During the year a number of new prizes have been founded, and to the already existing Scholarships have been added four, to be known as the Stinnecke Scholarships; and to the four Fellowships have been added four others, to be known as the Boudinôt Fellowships in History and Modern Languages.

Yesterday Princeton, on account of the storm, did not wear its usual Commencement dress, but the attendance on the exercises was still large, and a dense crowd filled the First Presbyterian Church. At 9 o'clock the procession formed in the campus, and, preceded by the band of the Seventy-first New-York Regiment, marched to the church.

President MCCOSH, Ex-President MCLEAN, Gov. PARKER, Ex-Gov. OLDEN, Judge NIXON, and others, occupied the platform with the students of the Graduating Class and the speakers. After prayer by Dr. MCCOSH, the following programme was carried out:

Leigh Pressmond Hunt, Alabama, Latin salutatory; James Adair Lyon, Mississippi, English salutatory; John Crawford, Delaware, philosophical oration; Henry Nevins Van Dyke, New-Jersey, classical oration, (Greek;) Melbert Brinkerhoff Cary, Wisconsin, physical oration; John Clarence Lane, Maryland, rhetorical oration; Walter Reuben Frame, Illinois, mathematical oration; George Augustus Blake, New-Jersey, political science oration; Samuel Evans Ewing, Pennsylvania, classical oration; John Elihu Woodruff, New-Jersey, "The Decline of Literature;" Fred. B. Du Val, Maine, "The Two Rights of Women;" Archibald Alexander Murphy, Pennsylvania, "Great Thoughts;" Henry Marvin Ogden, Wisconsin, "Henry Clay;" Addison Atwater, New-Jersey, "The Faithful Servant of a Grateful People;" Charles Seth Lane, Maryland, "Influence of Misery on Man;" Hamilton Murray, New-York, "Ueber die Cultur der Deutschen Sprache in America;" Chester Paul Murray, Ohio, "Our True Riches;" Tobias Walter Johnston, Mississippi, "Suggestions of the Past;" Newell Woodley Otis, New-York, "Shelley;" George Wilson, Pennsylvania, "A Safe Policy," and John Davis Davis, Missouri, "Conservative Forces of Society."

After the delivery of the Bachelors' orations a recess was taken.

During the morning the Class of 1870 held a meeting regarding the erection of a monument to THEODORIC B. PRYOR, the brilliant young honor man of two years ago. Subscriptions of $1,100 paid up were announced, and a committee of five was selected to secure further moneys.

After the recess the audience reassembled in the church, where the Master's Oration was delivered by Mr. E. S. KESSBEY, of Newark, after which the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred on the ninety-four members of the Graduating Class, and the decree of Master of Arts upon thirty-two members of the Class of 1869, who have since that time been engaged in the pursuit of literary studies. The in cursu degree of Master of Arts was also conferred upon ABNER NASH OGDEN, 1852; JOHN WILLETT WORDSWORTH, 1857; and AUGUSTUS ARMAGNAC, 1861. The following were the honorary degrees announced: Doctor of Laws, PARKE GODWIN, of New-York; Doctor of Divinity, Rev. THOMAS MURPHY, of Pennsylvania; Masters of Art, E. C. BATES, Jr., C. H. WEST, and ANDREW KIRKPATRICK.

The names of the successful competitors for the fellowships, scholarships and prizes were as follows:

Junior Oration prizes—First, J. R. Adams; second, G. H. Duffield; third, H. J. Van Dyke; fourth, J. P. K. Bryan, and with these the McLean prize of $100 for the best written of the orations to S. J. McPherson, Potts Bibb, Van Dyke, Du Val and Arthur Bruen; Dickinson prize in English literature, G. S. Burroughs; the Class of 1859 prize in English literature, Davison Decker; Class of 1841 prize, G. Fenwick; the Marquand Classical Fellowship of $600 a year to Winfred Robert Mantin, of Pekin, China; the Mental Science Fellowship of $600 a year to Leigh Richmond Smith, the Junior Mathematical Fellowship of $600 a year to James Adair Lyon, of Missouri; the Experimental Science Fellowship, of the same amount, to Albert Williams, of California; the Boudinot Historical Fellowship to James Wilson Riggs; the Boudinot Modern Language Fellowship to John Hitchcock Scribner, and the Thomson First Honor Prize to Leigh Richmond Smith, of Alabama.

The President brought out a storm of cheers by the announcement that Mr. J. C. GREEN had given $200,000, in addition to $330,000 already given to the College. This $200,000 will be used for the establishment and endowment of the proposed Scientific School.

The valedictory was delivered by RICHMOND PEARSON.

At 3½ o'clock, 350 of the Alumni of Princeton sat down to the annual dinner in Dickinson Hall. At the close of the dinner Prof. HENRY, of the Smithsonian Institute, replied to the toast of our "Sister Institutions," and Senator KELLY of Illinois, to that of Our Alumni." President MCCOSH called upon Gov. BRADFORD, of Maryland; PARKE GODWIN, of the Nation; Dr. FERRIS, of Philadelphia, and G. H. STUART, of Philadelphia, by each of whom addresses were made. This concluded the Commencement exercises.

VASSAR COLLEGE.

Regular Commencement Exercises—Programme of the Day—General Leave-Taking.

From Our Own Correspondent.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Wednesday, June 26, 1872.

The continued bad weather has prevented many from attending the Commencement exercises today, at Vassar, though there were certainly as many there as the limited space in the chapel could comfortably accommodate. The day, however, is not held in as much respect by the students as the preceding one, and there was certainly less individuality in the programme adopted. This was as follows:

The Conferring of Degrees by President Raymond.
Doxology.

All of the essays were well written, and evinced a considerable advancement in scientific study. Several of them were unusually interesting, especially the two by Miss HOLLISTER and Miss ELLIOT, on the "Reverence and Irreverence of the Age." The Graduating Class consists of twenty-eight students, and both in talent and numbers is superior to any class that has before graduated at this institution. After the Baccalaureate degree had been bestowed on the candidates, whose names we gave in yesterday's issue, President RAYMOND read the names of three of the graduates of the Class of 1870, who, after two years of hard study, had been made Masters of Arts. These ladies were Miss SARAH M. GLAZIER, Miss ISABELLE CARTER and Miss MARY W. WHITNEY.

Soon after the conclusion of the exercises the scholars began to make preparations for their homeward journeys. Carriage after carriage has left the College grounds this afternoon loaded with fair inmates, who make this their centre of departure for points as widely separated as Maine and California. The College building will present a deserted appearance this evening, the Graduating Class alone remaining in order to make a few preparations previous to a final leave-taking. Among the guests present today were Ex-Gov. BUCKINGHAM, of Connecticut; President ANDERSON, of Rochester University; Rev. Dr. MAGOON, and BENSON LOSSING.

Columbia College Commencement—Degrees and Prizes.

The Columbia College celebrated their One Hundred and Eighteenth Commencement yesterday, at the Academy of Music. There was a very fair attendance, and the floral display was as plentiful as ever.
